66 Dead and 100 Injured in Wake of Texas Storm

RESCUE WORKERS RECOVER BODIES IN RUINED HOMES

Work of Rehabilitation Begins After Hours Devoted to Finding Dead and Injured.

NUMBER HOMELESS STILL UNKNOWN

Property Loss Placed at $500,000 in Latest Western Tornado Disturbances.

DALLAS, Texas, May 7.—(P)—Digging through debris of tornado-swept areas of central and south Texas, rescue workers tonight had recovered 66 bodies and had removed more than 100 injured to hospitals and homes for medical treatment.

No estimate of the number made homeless was available, nor had any official estimate of the property damage been made, but those in touch with the situation predicted the loss would easily exceed $500,000.

The series of tornado disturbances spread their havoc at widely separated places over an area of approximately 281,250 square miles, from Abilene on the west to Marshall, about 450 linear miles, and from Childress, on the north, to Runge, about 625 miles to the south.

The tornadoes struck without much warning and a large number of those killed were caught in the destruction of their modest farm homes.

In one case a relief party found the bodies of nine members of one family in the wreckage of their home near Runge, where 26 persons lost their lives and approximately 60 were injured.

Frost Hard Hit.
Frost, a village of 1,000 in central Texas, was the hardest hit of the towns struck. Its business district was practically destroyed and 25 of its residents killed, and a large number injured.

The rest of the death toll was as follows: Seven at Byrum, two near West, one at San Antonio, three near Ennis, and two at Bronson.

Throughout last night rescue workers searched the ruins for the dead and injured and today the work of rehabilitation was begun.

A relief fund of $900 was raised at Corsicana, near Frost, and a donation of $200 was announced by a Dallas newspaper.

Governor Dan Moody ordered the adjutant general to send as many troops as needed to patrol the streets and to aid in the relief work at Frost.

The governor was informed that Albert Evans, assistant national director of disaster relief of the Red Cross at St. Louis, was en route to the stricken area, and that all Red Cross agencies were aiding in the relief work.

Figure Lowered.
First reports from the storm districts placed the number killed at more than 70, but a closer check over compiled communication facilities lowered this figure. A number of those injured, however, were not expected to recover, and it was feared the final report would show a death list exceeding the original figure.

Many of the usual freaks accompanying tornadoes were reported. Runge and Nordheim six miles apart, between which a wide path was made by the storm in that section, were not touched. The twister swerved just to the south of each town.

The affected area near Runge was about 300 yards wide and about 15 miles long, traversing a thickly settled section.

GLADYS PYLE LEADS DAKOTA GOVERNORSHIP RACE

PIERRE, S. D., May 7.—(UN)—20 to select the nominee for governor if none of the candidates gets the necessary majority. Miss Pyle probably will be selected on the basis of her lead, political authorities said.

Miss Pyle, 39 years old, pretty, of medium height and curly brown, bobbed hair, is the present secretary of state. She spent the day at her home in Huron listening to the returns. When asked for a statement she laughed and said she would have to get some sleep before being able to say anything which would sound "even slightly intelligent."

Senator W. H. McMaster was leading his only opponent, George J. Danforth, by about 10,000 votes for the republican nomination for the United States senate. Returns from 1403 precincts gave McMaster 55,824 votes and Danforth 46,162.

Her nearest opponent was former Governor Carl Gunderson with 26,450 votes. Three other men divided 50,000 votes between them.

The state republican committee will hold a special convention here May 20 to select the nominee for governor.

Location of the reserve officers' airdrome for the fourth corps area at Candler field was assured Wednesday afternoon when the Fulton county commission appropriated $5,000 for material in erecting a hangar, and voted to contribute as much more as possible in removing a steel hangar from Fort McPherson to the airport.

The commission also voted to improve Candler field by the laying of a penetration pavement, 675 feet long by 150 feet wide, along the hangar line for use as an apron to keep down dust.

E. K. Davis, reserve officer, who presented the matter to the commission on behalf of a strong committee of interested citizens, said that the action of the commission will insure Atlanta's acceptance as the place for the airdrome, and that the government will place five airplanes on the field immediately, with more to follow later.

Mr. Davis said that the committee will endeavor to secure from the city a concrete floor and apron for the hangar, as well as a loan for a storehouse and shop, and doors for the hangar. He stressed the importance of getting the work started before the end of the army fiscal year on June 30. He said that the hangar would be ready for use in 30 days after the work is begun.

Under the action of the commission the $5,000 in cash was made available to the city. The commission, expressed the thanks of the committee to the commission, and pointed out Atlanta's rapidly growing importance in aviation.

The request for an apron along the hangar line was presented to the commission by J. H. Gray, manager of the Candler field, who drew attention to the dust and annoyance caused by dust clouds raised by the whirling propellers. Mr. Gray also requested the commission to pave the 1,800-foot roadway leading into the field, and to lay 1,200 feet of 50-foot aprons between the hangars. The commission, however, declined to undertake the road paving, and said that paving of the 50-foot apron would be taken up later after the commission had looked over the situation.

Mr. Gray also requested the commission to purchase the divisional manager of Southern Air Transport, Inc., and secretary of the Candler Field Operators' Association, said that much credit in inflicting the move to solve the dust problem at Candler field by providing the apron granted Wednesday by the commission is due to the "Air Views" column of the Constitution. He said that the movement instituted in The Constitution air column met with very satisfactory results to the operators at Candler field.

"City Viciously Interested."
"Announcement that the people of Atlanta would send representatives to the general mass meeting at the Atlanta theater Friday night," he said, "has shown that the city at large is vitally interested in the movement to solve the dust problem."

Mr. Gray also requested the commission to purchase the divisional manager of Southern Air Transport, Inc., and secretary of the Candler Field Operators' Association, said that much credit in inflicting the move to solve the dust problem at Candler field by providing the apron granted Wednesday by the commission is due to the "Air Views" column of the Constitution. Damages of $50,000 Given to Mrs. Cooley
Mrs. Sarah Doral Cooley, who lost both of her legs in an accident at Gammage crossing, near West End, on May 1, 1929, Wednesday night was given one of the largest verdicts ever returned in a damage suit in Fulton county when a jury awarded her $50,000 against the Central of Georgia railroad. Mrs. Cooley was struck while walking across the tracks. The case was tried before Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court.

Mrs. Cooley is the daughter of "Uncle Jimmy" Doyal, popular desk officer in the Atlanta detective bureau. Her petition was prosecuted by the law firm of Hewlett & Dennis, Little, Powell, Reid and Goldstein, and Marion Smith represented the railroad company. It is expected that the defendant will appeal the case.

POSTOFFICE HEADS PREPARE TO DRAW PLAN FOR BUILDING

Government Assured That Site Deal Can Be Worked Out, Is Going Ahead With Project.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, May 7.—(Special)—Assured by representatives of the several property owners that successful negotiations can be worked out for the purchase of the site selected yesterday for the new Atlanta federal building, government officials today set themselves to the task of drawing up preliminary plans for the structure, which will represent a cost of $2,875,000.

After further conferences with treasury and postoffice department officials, J. H. Taylor, of the Atlanta realty firm of J. H. Taylor & Son, returned to the city tonight for the purpose of discussing with the property owners terms of the sale. Before leaving he appeared to be confident that no difficulty would be encountered in having the government and the site owners get together on a mutually satisfactory price, expected to be somewhere between $850,000 and $900,000.

Tentative plans of the federal building call for a total floor space of at least 1,800,000 square feet on a site to be carved out of the northerly portion of the block bounded by Spring, Hunter, Forsyth and Mitchell streets. The actual dimensions of the site, as announced by officials last night, will be 300 feet on Spring street by 420 feet on Hunter, embracing an area of some 126,000 square feet.

Plans to Be Made Later.
Necessarily the final plans on the type and design of the building must await a later date for completion, but assurances have been given by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Perry Heath and Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General John W. Phillips, that the building will be both a work of art and a thing of architectural beauty as well.

Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the Atlanta district, is planning to urge at the proper time that the outside facing be constructed of Georgia marble. In this he will be supported by both Georgia senators, W. J. Harris and Walter F. George, who have been active in the project from the start.

As announced by the officials in charge here, the two lower floors, with a space of about 120,000 square feet, will be given over to activities of the mail handling department and will be a large number of illiterates would receive a proportionate share of the funds.

The bill was prepared in cooperation with the American Federation of Teachers. It also has the endorsement of the department of adult education of the National Education Association. A number of social and patriotic organizations are also working to help eradicate illiteracy.

His final story was of the church saint, John Wesley, and his marital difficulties. When Wesley's wife left him, Candler said, Wesley wrote: "She left without my permission. 'She may come back when she is ready. But I'll never go back after her.'"

Steel Institute Elects Gregg To Directorate
One of the highest honors in the metallurgical field of industry has been conferred upon Robert Gregg, president of the Atlantic Steel Company, Atlanta, by the directors of the American Iron & Steel Institute, premier adult education and policy organization of the iron and steel industries in the United States, it was learned Wednesday.

Mr. Gregg, who has served in virtually every capacity since entering the service of the Atlantic Steel Company here more than 20 years ago, was elected to the institute's directorate upon the resignation of Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the board of the First National bank, tendered recently by Mr. Glenn upon his severance of connection with the steel industry. Mr. Gregg succeeded Mr. Glenn as his successor and the board at its next meeting chose him as a member.

Entering the service of the Atlantic Steel Company here in 1906 as a common laborer following a term at Cornell University where he won president's degree, Mr. Gregg steadily worked his way to the top of the local organization, serving in virtually every department. He was elected president of the local branch in 1922 and since that time has served in that office. He is well known throughout the steel industry and recently was also chosen to head the Atlanta Aircraft Company, a concern established for the purpose of building airplanes here.

Mr. Gregg left Atlanta early Wednesday for New York where he will remain for several days.

GEORGE SPONSORS ILLITERACY FIGHT

Bill Asking for Fund of $1,000,000 Offered With Assistance of Bratton.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—At the request of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, now absent on a visit to the state, Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, today laid before the upper chamber a bill designed to extend federal aid to the several states in their efforts to eliminate illiteracy.

Under the terms of the measure congress would approve a program for the appropriation of $1,000,000 a year for a period of five years, the funds to be administered entirely by state educational authorities in illiteracy eradication campaigns. No requirement is made that the individual states match the funds dollar for dollar.

The bill was prepared in cooperation with the American Federation of Teachers. It also has the endorsement of the department of adult education of the National Education Association. A number of social and patriotic organizations are also working to help eradicate illiteracy.

His final story was of the church saint, John Wesley, and his marital difficulties. When Wesley's wife left him, Candler said, Wesley wrote: "She left without my permission. 'She may come back when she is ready. But I'll never go back after her.'"

Lodowick J. Hill, 84, Former Banker, Dies

Lodowick Johnson Hill, 84, former president of the old Georgia City National bank, of Atlanta, and the ranking cadet officer of the Georgia Military Institute, at Marietta, when it enlisted as a body in Confederate army during the War Between the States, died Wednesday afternoon at his residence, 811 Peachtree street, after a brief illness.

He was one of the most distinguished genealogists in America, taking up the study as a hobby when he retired from active business many years ago. He had a splendid record in the Civil War.

Born in Wilkes county, the son of Lodowick Meriwether Hill, he first attended the institute at Marietta, and, after the war, completed his education at the University of Virginia, the University of Berlin and the University of Paris. In Atlanta he was prominently identified with banking, having been president of the Old Gate City National bank for many years.

He married Miss Mary Ruth Henderson, daughter of General Robert J. Henderson, noted Confederate leader. Mrs. Hill died in 1918.

Mr. Hill is survived by one daughter, Miss Annie Laurie Hill, and one son, Lodowick J. Hill, Jr. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Bishop Candler Chases Dullness For Methodists

DALLAS, Texas, May 7.—(P)—If it were seemly to call a Methodist Episcopal bishop a raconteur, Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, Ga., whose broad wit and slow drawl as presiding officer helped bring the quadrennial conference of the south church here to a successful start today, would richly deserve that application.

The senior bishop of the college is of portly build. He appears to have no delusions regarding his figure. Of him the story is told that he could never play golf "because when I get near enough the ball to hit it, I can't see it; and when I get it far enough away to see it, I can't reach it."

From the conference floor one well-meaning delegate asked the chair to explain the meaning of a quorum. The chair explained that a quorum usually was regarded as a majority, adding that his definition was in Robert's Rules of Order, "but, of course, no Methodist bishop ever reads Robert's Rules of Order."

Bishop Candler himself laughed longest—and shook most—at a story he told to assure Dallas Methodists that the conference was glad to be in Dallas, in which unmistakable reference was made to protruding waistlines, such as his own.

"I'm not able to get rid of it," he said, "like the wife who always took her portly husband wherever she went."

"Asked why she never left him at home, she replied: "Oh, I'd rather take him along than try to kiss him goodbye!"

His final story was of the church saint, John Wesley, and his marital difficulties. When Wesley's wife left him, Candler said, Wesley wrote: "She left without my permission. 'She may come back when she is ready. But I'll never go back after her.'"

METHODISTS OPEN DALLAS MEETING

Organization Routine Takes Up First Day of Session.

DALLAS, Texas, May 7.—(P)—A non-political stand in favor of law enforcement, censure of "popular" moving pictures, plays and fiction, and changes in the rules of the church for the coming four years were recommendations made today to the quadrennial general conference, legislative branch of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Hearty applause interrupted the reading of the address of bishops by Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon when he reached the point dealing with prohibition enforcement which said in part: "The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, professes no political creed. The church, as such, can have no alliance with partisan politics and politicians. And it has no advice to give its membership with regard to their party affiliations. All this is beyond the sphere of the church. But the church does stand as the eternal enemy of unrighteousness in every name and form."

The bishops' address was the high spot of a day given over principally to organization routine as the conference opened what may be a three-week session. Reading of the roll of delegates alone, with 473 answering present, took a large part of the morning.

Among delegates failing to answer on the roll was the Rev. R. B. Shuler, of Los Angeles, today on the second day of a 20-day sentence for contempt of court in the California city. Laughing and handclapping greeted his name and dignity was restored only after Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding, had thumped vociferously on his table.

The Rev. L. H. Estes, of Memphis, was elected general secretary of the conference, defeating J. G. Mool, of McKinney, who served many years as secretary to the North Texas conference.

"We should let it be everywhere known," said a part of the prohibition section, "that whenever any institution or organization becomes the friend and patron of the liquor traffic, or encourages the violation of the prohibition amendment, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be hostile to it."

NORTH CAROLINA JURIST DEFEATED BY 41-TO-39 VOTE

Western and Southern Group Would Revise Trend of Decisions, Sullivan Says.

NEGRO AND LABOR SEEN AS "SCREEN"

Hoover Nominee Loses Long Fight; President Withholds Comment on Action.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.
WASHINGTON, May 7.—The echoes of the senate rejection of Judge John J. Parker, today will last long. Also they will be renewed, because a new selection must be made in place of Judge Parker. Further than that, there will be other appointments. It is commonly put forward as a possibility that during the next five or six years, as many as five vacancies may occur, to be filled by new justices. The would make more than half the court. If the precedent of the rejection of Judge Parker should be followed the senate would be able in large part to determine the personnel of the court and alter its line of decisions.

The nomination of Parker went down to defeat by a vote of 40 to 39 today.

In a large part the vote against Judge Parker represented a fixed and aggressive determination by a group of senators to bring about a change in the trend of decisions in the supreme court as it now exists. They propose to bring about this change in two ways. By their votes and their arguments as each new appointee comes up, they wish to give warning to the nine justices already on the court. Also, of course, they propose to change the personnel of the court and the character of its decisions, by preventing confirmation of any new appointee unless the appointee is known to hold convictions satisfactory to this group of senators.

This determination to bring about an alteration in an existing trend of decisions in the supreme court accounts for the largest group of those who voted against Judge Parker. This group of senators can be easily, though roughly, identified. They are roughly the same 24 senators who voted or were paired against both Judge Parker and also against Charles E. Hughes for chief justice. In both cases the objection was not mainly to the appointee. The appointee was used as the occasion to register a protest against the supreme court and a warning to it, in the case of Mr. Hughes, especially.

Coca-Cola Co. May Dissolve Domestication in Georgia

Directors Urge That Concern Be Made Corporation of Delaware Only. Location Here Not Affected.

Stockholders of the Coca-Cola Company have been called to meet in Atlanta on May 10 to consider a recommendation of their board of directors that the company dissolve its domestication under the laws of Georgia.

This change, it was pointed out in an official statement, is proposed in order to solve a technical problem as to the company's tax status brought about by the Boykin income tax law. The Coca-Cola Company was chartered in 1919 under the laws of Delaware, and has since maintained its general headquarters here. If the status of the domestic corporation is dissolved, the change would not, it was stated, affect the location of the company or its offices, but only its legal status, being in the future a corporation of Delaware only—instead of both Georgia and Delaware.

The company issued the following statement:

"The Boykin statutory income tax act has been upheld by the supreme court of Georgia as constitutional. However, there remains many points in connection with this bill that are unsettled and will be from time to time construed by the courts, and regulations will be from time to time issued by the state tax commissioner.

"One of the questions that is involved is the status of a foreign corporation that has become domesticated under the laws of the state, but which files its federal income tax return in a district other than the district of Georgia.

"Pending the settlement of such a question and other questions that might arise, the directors of the Coca-Cola Company recommended that a special meeting of the stockholders of the Coca-Cola Company be called in order to determine if the stockholders desired to dissolve the domestication so that there could be no question of the tax status of the Coca-Cola Company.

"The question as above stated has been made the subject of a special meeting of the stockholders to be held on May 10, 1930."

Taft Gift Would Aid 'Humanities' Study

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 7.—(AP) Lest thought, conduct and character be forgotten in modern advancement, Mrs. Annie Taft has given $2,000,000 to be used in the study of "the humanities" at the University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Taft, sister-in-law of the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, donated the fund as a memorial to her late husband, Charles P. Taft, philanthropist and publisher.

Mrs. Taft explained that in referring to "the humanities" she particularly meant literature, language, philosophy and history, also having in mind economics and mathematics.

"Without wishing to lessen or to regard any way lightly the great effort being put forth for material and physical betterment of mankind to which great funds are everywhere being devoted, I believe there is some danger of the lack of emphasis on the value of thought and conduct and character, and I have therefore confined my gift to the humanities which are concerned with development of ideas of that character," Mrs. Taft said.

She said she hoped that her gift would bring about a concentration on these ideas at the University of Cincinnati and elsewhere. The fund, the largest ever received by the university, will be used in the college of liberal arts and the graduate school.

Mrs. McClelland was the former Miss Bunny Abbott, prominent Summerville girl. Mr. McClelland is head of the law firm of McClelland and Bonner.

TRADE Gillette MARK

No longer can damaged corners spoil your shave

EVERY ONE of the big improvements in the New Gillette was made after careful experiment. Each plays its definite part in increasing the shaving comfort of the millions of men who have bought the New Gillette Razor and Blade since their introduction.

For instance, all four corners of the new blades are cut out. All four corners of the new razor cap are heavily reinforced. These changes, in combination with the new shaped guard teeth, prevent "razor pull," caused in the old razor by dropping it and denting the corners. The channel guard leaves the blade edge free, but protected. The rust-resisting blade saves you the tedious task of taking the razor apart and wiping the blade. Now you just shake it dry.

These, and all the other improvements, are yours in the New Gillette Razor for a dollar—in a beautiful case with one New Gillette Blade. Additional new blades at one dollar for ten, fifty cents for five—in the new green packet.

Inoculation of Dogs Started in Atlanta

Atlanta dogs Wednesday began complying with the new law requiring inoculation to prevent the spread of rabies, when "Jiggs" owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hall, of 1178 Piedmont road, was the first to take his medicine under the ordinance.

Under terms of the measure which council approved Monday and which Mayor I. N. Ragsdale approved Tuesday, owners of all dogs must have them vaccinated within the next 30 days or be subject to fines not exceeding $100 and 90 days in the city stockade, either or both in the discretion of the judge of the recorder's court.

Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, Wednesday called attention to the fact that the law applies not only to the dog which is permitted to rove the streets, but also to those confined in the homes.

"It is a protection to immediate members of the family as well as to the public, and every home owes that protection to everyone with whom the dog might come in contact," he said.

After the 30-day period provided in the ordinance has expired, we shall begin as rigid an enforcement of the ordinance as is possible. In the interim any dog found roving the streets will be picked up by the dog catcher.

Clothing Is Needed, Rescue Workers Say

Forty children and fifteen adults are sorely in need of clothing at the home of the American Rescue Workers, 420 Piedmont avenue, N. E., and Atlanta has been called upon to supply the need. Colonel Williamson, officer in charge of the home, requests that persons having such clothing call the offices of the home, Walnut 9763, and the organization will send for them.

'Youth Rally' Sponsors Will Assemble Today

While plans for a representative "Youth Rally" to be held Sunday afternoon, June 1, at the city auditorium, were being perfected, leaders in the movement Wednesday called a meeting of the promotion committee to be held at 12:30 o'clock today in Rich's tea room.

According to Thomas C. Dickson, chairman of the promotion committee, today's meeting will be of the utmost importance and all persons interested in the forthcoming rally are urged to attend.

Four-Cornered Campaign For Mayor's Post Assured

JOHN L. CONE, Who will run for recorder.

Wiley L. Moore Enters. Dobbs Will Not Run. Cone Seeks Place of Recorder.

Entrance Wednesday of Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh ward, chairman of the finance committee, to the race for mayor subject to the democratic primary of June 18, assured a four-cornered battle for that office.

At the same time John L. Cone, city paymaster, announced his candidacy for the post of judge of the second division of the recorder's court, and Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, declared he would seek that position again.

Councilman Moore declared he would co-operate with any and all citizens of Atlanta who want a businesslike government, standing for a strict budget system for all departments and sanctioning a budgetary system on a "per child" attendance of the Atlanta public schools. Councilman Moore threw his hat into the political arena Wednesday.

Pleasant Judson Wray Dies at Hospital Here

Pleasant Judson Wray, 51, building contractor, died at a local hospital Wednesday afternoon after a brief illness and funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Lakewood Heights Baptist church with the Rev. W. H. Major officiating. Interment will be in West View.

Mr. Wray, in addition to being a member of the Lakewood Heights Baptist church, was a member of two fraternal orders, the Lakewood lodge, F. and A. M., and the Woodmen of the World. He resided at 1571 Lakewood avenue.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Wray; two daughters, Miss Irene Wray and Mrs. Julian Ray, Jr.; one son, Russell Wray; three brothers, Luford Wray, of Union Point, and Jim and E. B. Wray, of Texas; a half-brother, William Blugly, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. W. H. Higgenbottom, of Madison, and Mrs. Samuel Perkins, of Monroe. Awtrey & Lowndes are in charge of arrangements.

Robert Paris Dies At Cordele Hospital

Robert Ray Paris, 39, of 1331 Greenland drive, traveling auditor for the Western Union Telegraph Company for a number of years, died at Cordele Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. He had been ill for several days. Services are to be conducted from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with the Rev. W. H. Major officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Paris was on his vacation with his wife and while en route to Florida was stricken and stopped at Cordele where he was in a hospital until his death. Wednesday. At the services Friday a Cordele minister, the Rev. A. Acree, will assist Dr. Major. The body arrived in Atlanta Wednesday night and was taken to the funeral home of Sam R. Greenberg.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Paris is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Paris, Sr.; four sisters, Mrs. C. A. Upshaw, of Alpharetta; Mrs. J. E. Goodwin, of Hastings, Fla.; Miss Winifred and Miss Martha Paris, of Atlanta; and four brothers, J. B. Jr., W. S., Curtis Paris, of Atlanta, and H. B. Paris of Huntington, W. Va.

Funeral Services Held for W. S. Byck

Funeral services for W. S. Byck, pioneer Atlanta businessman and retail shoe dealer, who died at his apartments in a local hotel Tuesday after a long illness, were conducted at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning from the residence of a nephew, Julian Hirschberg, of 1049 Springfield road.

Dr. David Marx officiated at the services, and interment was in the Byck mausoleum in Crest Lawn cemetery. Nephews of Mr. Byck served as pallbearers. There was an honorary escort composed of a representation from the Shrine and executive officers and charter members of the Atlanta Rotary Club.

SEVEN AUTOISTS FINED

Violations of Lighting Ordinances Charged.

Seven persons were fined $4 each Wednesday in recorder's court on the charge of violating the city ordinance governing lighting facilities of automobiles on the streets of Atlanta at night. One other person forfeited a $7 cash bond by failing to report for trial.

Late Wednesday night no additional cases had been made for alleged violations of the ordinance. In three nights more than 20 cases were docked as police made a war on "one-eyed" cars and those being driven without lights at all. Most cases were made at the intersection of Peachtree street and North avenue.

standing members of council for several years and has held the post of chairman of the finance committee, the most important assignment in the gift of a mayor, since the resignation of Councilman A. J. Orme, former finance head. The councilman is a resident of the Woodford Oil Company and is well known in local business, political and fraternal circles.

Moore's Announcement.

Text of Mr. Moore's statement in announcing his candidacy follows: "I hope to place our city government on a business basis. Fully aware that no single member of council can do this, I believe it can be done with a strong executive head.

"To secure more efficient transaction of all city business, one of my first recommendations is a material reduction in the size of council from the present unwieldy membership of thirty-nine.

"Then I would want every department to be run strictly on a budget basis, just as is done in my own or any other well-organized business corporation.

"As for the board of education's budget, I would favor apportioning its funds on a certain per child basis determined by the number of pupils, and further would favor a monthly budget for the department so that schools would not just as much money in December as in January.

"The grand jury, in investigating municipal affairs, has done a wonderful work. I think I have no grievance against it, or the citizens' committee, or anybody else. If elected mayor I would be glad to co-operate with them or with any one else desiring good government on a business basis."

Cone's Announcement.

Text of Mr. Cone's announcement for the recorder's position follows: "My sole platform as a candidate for the judgeship of the second division of recorder's court will be the administration of justice, tempered with moderation, to all who come in contact with that court.

"Realizing that the court must deal with all classes of citizens and that each case must be judged solely on its own merits, I shall make no specific pledges. I do promise, however, to deal with every defendant who comes into court conscientiously and justly.

"As a member for many years of our leading fraternal organizations, I am pledged to their ideals of good citizenship. In so far as possible, I hope to make the court a corrective agency as well as a punitive one, dealing with defendants in such way as to prevent future crimes, while at the same time upholding on all occasions the dignity of our ordinances.

"I am a native of Georgia and have lived in Atlanta for the major portion of my life. As one who has our laws and customs at heart, I will seek, if elected, to handle my office in the manner our people would wish, and with the same integrity that has characterized my service in the city paymaster's office.

"I will appreciate the vote of each citizen, and to each I pledge my best service.

"I will continue to give the people of Atlanta faithful and efficient service if re-elected," Mr. Millican said. "I am running on a clean government platform and on my record."

Zack T. Layfield Wednesday announced and qualified for the place which Councilman Moore will vacate in the seventh ward.

Mr. Layfield is one of the best-known citizens of the seventh ward, having resided there since 1918. He is a member of the West End Businessmen's Club and has been active in civic affairs of this ward for some time.

Mr. Layfield is in the automobile repair business at 141 Marietta street, and states he has no platform other than as businessman and he stands for a business administration.

TAKEN FROM THE SURFACE—but the Surface has hardly been scratched

ONE of the many advantages of working with Georgia clay is the ease of getting at the broad lenses. No costly overburden stripping, no expensive mining methods pull up the price of this raw material. In Georgia you put a mechanical shovel to work—and up comes the clay you need.

And the surface of this great field has hardly been scratched. There are sedimentary basins to supply the world for generations to come. There are clays of every type and color exactly the combination you need for your particular branch of the industry.

You can produce in Georgia with lower costs all down the line. Here you will find other needed raw materials. Labor is efficient, inherently interested, quick to learn, outdoor work all the year round, reduces the cost of buildings and heating. Taxes are low. Abundant and dependable power is ready at low rates. Natural gas and other fuels are reasonably priced. These and many other basic factors in Georgia create profits from operation in Georgia.

The South is a strong market for your wares. To this market, and to the markets of the world Georgia supplies quick, economical transportation by rail, water and air. You can make your goods here and set them down almost everywhere in the old, congested centers of the industry.

A thorough engineering study of the Ceramic field has been made by the Industrial Department of Georgia Power Company. The facts developed will gladly be presented to any executive who will write either to the New York office, 20 Pine street, or direct to the home office, Electric building, Atlanta, Georgia.

Our Job—more PROFITABLE FARMING as well as more INDUSTRIES

SINCE the recent announcement of the Georgia Power Company Profitable Farming Award, some folks have asked—Why is the Georgia Power Company interested in farming? What has a public utility to do with agriculture?

Community development is a part of our job. Above is reproduced one of the advertisements we publish in magazines of national circulation in an effort to induce new industries to locate in Georgia. New industries in Georgia mean new customers to buy our power, greater wealth for Georgia, greater opportunities for us to sell our product. So we promote Georgia's industrial growth in any way we can.

Promoting Georgia's agriculture is likewise our job, and for the same reasons. Our business success depends so greatly on Georgia's prosperity, and so much of Georgia's wealth comes from the soil, it would be strange if we did not wish to do everything we can to help make Georgia farms more prosperous—now more so than ever, since the expansion of our service into new sections recently has so greatly increased the number of our customers dependent entirely or almost entirely on wealth that comes from the farms.

It's a simple business proposition with us. All of our business is done in Georgia, and almost the only way we can hope to promote our business is by promoting the welfare and prosperity of our customers in Georgia. We wish to help make Georgia farms more prosperous, not for any charitable reason, but simply because it's good business for us to do it.

Rail Brotherhood To Hear George, Hardman, Ragsdale

High Officials of Railway Unions on Program of First Day's Session at Piedmont Today.

Addresses by United States Senator Walter F. George, Governor L. G. Hardman, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and high officials of railway unions will feature the first day's session today of the annual southeastern union meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers and the ladies' society, which will convene this morning at the Piedmont hotel, to continue through Saturday. Hundreds of delegates and their wives, together with scores of members of the ladies' society of the affiliation, were arriving in the city late Wednesday. At 9:30 o'clock this morning registration of delegates will occupy the primary attention of the visitors, and at 1 o'clock this afternoon they will make an automobile tour of Atlanta, terminating the morning and afternoon program of the first day's sessions. The convention will officially open at 7 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium, where the convention will be called to order by H. V. Reid, convention chairman. Following invocation by the Rev. C. B. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church, Mayor Ragsdale will officially welcome the delegates to Atlanta. At 8:30 p.m. Governor Hardman will welcome the visitors on behalf of the state, and Senator George will deliver the principal address after an interlude of vocal music.

Other speakers on tonight's program are Louie P. Marquardt, secretary of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Mrs. Agnes G. Stroup, president of the Ladies' Society, and D. B. Robertson, international president of the locomotive brotherhood, who arrived in Atlanta Wednesday morning. Following Mr. Robertson's closing address, the delegates and their guests will be entertained by music and dancing, which is scheduled to continue until 1 a.m.

Friday's session will open at 9 o'clock in the morning with a business meeting of the brotherhood in the main auditorium of the armory, while a similar meeting for the ladies' society will be held in Taft hall. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the delegates will visit Grant Park, where they will view the cyclorama, following which will motor to Stone Mountain. Friday night's program opens with competitive drills by the delegates of the Ladies' Society, to be staged at 7:30 p.m. At 8 o'clock addresses by international and grand lodge officers will precede the meeting at which selection of the city for the next southeastern meeting will be made. Election of officers for the next convention also will be held at this meeting, following which Charles W. Maier, grand lodge representative, will speak.

On Saturday both the brotherhood delegates and members of the Ladies' Society will hold business meetings at 9:30 a.m. at the auditorium, which will be continued in the afternoon after a brief adjournment for luncheon. A third business session at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, also held in the auditorium, will conclude the official matters before the meeting and the remainder of the evening will be given over to dancing.

300 Peach Growers Convene Here Today

Three hundred or more growers and distributors of Georgia peaches are expected to attend a meeting at the state capitol today to discuss the peach industry with department of agriculture officials.

One of the most important questions before the body will, according to A. D. Jones, director of the bureau of markets, be that of containers for peaches. An effort will be made to have concealed nails and brads agreed upon, as an exposed point can damage the entire contents of a peach basket. The meeting was called by Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, several days ago.

MISSISSIPPI SENATE WILL TRY TAX HEAD

Date for Impeachment Proceedings Against Official Set.

JACKSON, Miss., May 7.—(P)—Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the state tax commission, will go to trial before the Mississippi senate sitting as a high court of impeachment on May 14 on six articles of impeachment. The trial date was set late today by the senate, immediately after that body overwhelmingly voted that a majority vote was only necessary to overcome motions to quash the articles. All six motions entered to quash were overruled by the court today, issue being taken on three as to whether they required two-thirds vote as is necessary to impeach.

"God grant that you will not permit an official to go to trial for impeachment on articles insufficient to stand in court," Defense Attorney J. T. Brown pleaded today in his closing arguments.

"It will be a dangerous precedent to establish that a man can be deprived of his civil rights and political liberties on charges that cannot be enlarged upon, or defined so not constitute a crime known to the state."

Franklin is charged with crime and misdemeanors for his connection with the stopping of the $10,000,000 restraint in trade plan, and for filing against Warren Brothers road material firm and the payment of $800,000 by a representative of the company to Marshall, Bay St. Louis attorney. His counsel argued that Franklin's act had no bearing on his official position.

Three of the motions to quash were voted down by the recognized two-thirds majority of the senate but the status of the vote on three other motions was left open for argument because a two-thirds vote was not obtained.

Just before the roll was called, Brown admonished the senators with: "Your vote on these motions is tantamount to conviction."

State Board Plans To Protect Shrimp

The state board of game and fish will discuss plans to close all inside waters along the Georgia coast against shrimp fishing at a meeting to be held at Brunswick June 12.

Prawn and shrimp fishermen are held responsible by a number of fishermen for the depletion of fish in enclosed waters. It is charged that commercial fishermen kill small fish by the millions in their operations.

The proposal to close the waters for a two or three year period was discussed at a meeting of the board held at the capitol Tuesday, but action was postponed until after the Brunswick meeting, when prawn and shrimp fishermen will give their side.

State Will Exhibit Valuable Miniature

Included in the exhibit of miniatures which will be a feature of the opening of the Rhodes Memorial hall Saturday and Sunday will be one of great age and value, the property of the family of Miss Katherine Hutcheson, secretary to R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner.

It is a miniature of Mrs. John Edward, great-great-grand-aunt of Miss Hutcheson and two of her children. Miniatures of more than one are extremely rare, it is said.

The name of Colonel Hamilton Yanney, of Rome, it was announced Wednesday, has been added to the list of distinguished Georgians who will attend the opening.

Home Demonstration Progress Is Outlined

Report of home demonstration work in Fulton county from March, 1929, to March, 1930, filed Wednesday with the county commission by Miss Lucy Wood, home demonstration agent, revealed that Fulton county has 175 women enrolled in seven clubs and 125 girls enrolled in eight clubs as a result of the demonstration work.

The report shows that 345 demonstrations were given, with an attendance of 3,086, and that Fulton county women won first place in the district garden contest and second place in the state in garden work, and that a Fulton county 4-H Club girl won first place in the state in the girls' garden contest. The county won fourth place in the state canning contest in women's work, and won first place in the district bread-making contest.

Doctor Butler Urges 'International Mind'

LONDON, May 7.—(P)—Another plea for world peace and the development of an "international mind" was made here today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, New York, in delivering the Richard Cobden lecture at the Royal Society of Arts, Adelphi.

The speech was broadcast in the United States.

Since Richard Cobden (1804-65) was an English statesman and political economist noted especially for his advocacy of peace and free trade, Dr. Butler hailed his accomplishments as those of a prophet in advance of his time. With his ideas only now beginning to bear the fruit he sought.

Highway Bid Details Discussed by Board

The state highway board held a meeting Wednesday for the purpose of clearing up several details with regard to the bids received on highway projects Tuesday. J. W. Barnett, chairman of the board, said that only routine matters were discussed.

Contracts which will be awarded on bids received May 22, Mr. Barnett said, will bring the total for 1930 up to $6,000,000.

Biggest Stock Market Bear Is Mysterious Character

LITTLE KNOWN OF MAN WHO SENDS PRICES TUMBLING

(Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.)

NEW YORK, May 7.—William R. Danforth, 43, whom the fellows call "Bill," is the biggest stock market bear since Jesse Livermore was in his prime.

It was under Mr. Danforth's leadership that the stock market crash of this week took place, and his name is heard more frequently in Wall Street just now than that of any other leader. Few men have smashed into Wall Street so spectacularly. Unknown even a year ago to the leaders, he has blossomed forth as the most powerful and vigorous bear of the traders—although it must be said that at times during the last year he is known to have traded the bull side of the market, although not for any long period.

Mr. Danforth's past is steeped in mystery. Little is known about his early career, although for the last 20 years he has lived in and around Boston, making money and going broke. One close friend of his said that five times in that period he has pyramided $1,000 into five hundred "grand" only to lose it again on a casual "hunch."

Lone Wolf. But even those who are his close friends on the street know him only in a business way. He is the lone wolf. Few bankers know him, either in this city or in Boston.

With no financial background he is supposed to have made somewhere between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 in the bear market of last fall. Among the stocks, in which he was supposed to have been a heavy seller are International Combustion, 20,000 shares of which he is reported to have sold short at 60, and covered at 15. Kolster Radio was another. Radio, Columbia Carbon, Marmon Motors and United Corporation are others he is believed to have dealt in.

Primarily, this Boston stock trader has always been interested in speed and still more speed. He likes the thrills of life. Already an adept at flying, he uses an airplane for frequent trips from his Cape Cod estate to his Brookline home. One report is that since he made his cleanup "he has been brushing the tree-tops every week-end on his pilgrimages via airplane between New York and Boston."

But as one interested in sports and speed, he likes prize fights and fast boats. He plays the market for the thrills he gets out of it—the money he makes is secondary. He has been known to lose $250,000 without batting an eyelash, and then play a good game of golf the same afternoon without even referring to his loss.

Money No Object. Last summer, before the big break, he was playing a game of golf on the Westchester Billmore Country Club with John Drake. The side bet was $200 a hole. He is no master golfer and he lost, but this was merely an incident in the day's sport—another evidence that it isn't money but the real joy of the sport that centers his interest.

It's the thrill of the thing and not the money that has made him such a power. He has courage—plenty of it—and he has demonstrated it masterfully on two recent occasions. But unlike the story-book account of success, he is not a hard, long-hour worker.

Physically, he is well-built, six feet tall, muscular, lean, dark, Indian-complexioned. His physical reserve is one of his most remarkable characteristics.

Since the stock market smash this week, which began under his masterful leadership last Wednesday, supported by some of the strongest and richest men in Wall Street, he has been widely written about as a "master psychologist," as a keen analyzer of business and stock trends and as one who knows exactly when to buy and when to sell on the "big board."

Few Changes. But there are some who have followed his career during the last eighteen months, who say that "Bill" is a wild speculator who sometimes goes on rampages and sells the whole board short without taking the time to figure very much on his margins. But he does not change his brokers often, so apparently they must be glad to have his business. From the standpoint of income, the commissions from his sales must be enormous and he often buys in blocks of 20,000 to 50,000 shares.

Mr. Danforth is married, has three children, with two homes, one at Craigsville, Cape Cod, and the other at Brookline, Mass., which is said to contain the most luxurious bedroom in that state.

In this city he is rarely seen in any brokerage house. Once in a while he goes into Gurnett & Company, on Broadway, because of his close friendship with Daniel W. Gurnett.

When in this city he lives at the Sherry-Netherlands hotel and carries on much of his negotiations from there.

But he remains today the "mystery man of the street" and probably the most powerful at this moment. "Every banker and stock trader in New York would like to know about 'Bill' Danforth. What do you know about him?" was a call which came over the phone as I was writing this story.

Committee Sees Economies But Asks Huge Naval Fund

Appropriations Group Asks $377,036,000, in Supply Bill, $57,365,000 of Which Is for Ships.

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Although forecasting economies as a result of the London naval treaty, the house appropriations committee today recommended an outlay of $377,036,000 for the naval establishment in the fiscal year 1931, of which it proposed that $57,365,000 be expended for modernization and construction of warships.

In reporting the annual navy supply bill to the house the committee said that from a financial point of view ratification of the London treaty would "curb the upward trend of our naval budgets and huge sums will be saved," although, it added, the 1931 bill "will not be greatly affected." The bill was held up by the committee several months pending the outcome of the London parity.

The measure carries an increase of $14,851,000 over the current year's outlay, but is $1,719,500 less than the budget estimates, $400,000 being eliminated as the first allotment for the third group of five cruisers under the 15-cruiser program, which, under the London treaty, would not be constructed. It provides $1,851,000 for the naval hospital fund, and other permanent appropriations not included in the grant total.

Savings Seen. Asserting that it did not seem appropriate to reduce the budget estimates by anticipating economies that the treaty suggested would be ultimately effected, the report said, however, that the pact would result in savings, particularly with respect to the battleship replacement program under the Washington arms treaty. It estimated that a saving of $375,000,000 would be effected on capital ships.

"The actual immediate savings, however, will come from two main sources," it added, pointing out that the decommissioning of the battleships Florida, Utah and Wyoming and the abandonment of their replacement would curtail outlays. However, the report continued, a part of this would be offset should a program to construct 73,500 tons of six-inch gun cruisers, allowed under the naval treaty, be undertaken.

"The matter of construction not now authorized," it continued, "touches one of the cardinal advantages of the London conference, in that limitation within categories leaves to the several nations the determination of whether or not construction shall proceed up to the respective treaty limits unhampered by the fear of what other nations may do."

Ratification Urged. "The signal accomplishment just arrived at by our delegates at London is an achievement of immeasurable importance to the peoples of the nations parties to the conference and indeed speaks all nations toward a course of conduct marked by international amity and good will." The report added that if ratification should occur within the fiscal year, the committee would expect the administration to take steps to lessen the expenditures accordingly.

While the committee looked forward to curtailment of outlays under the treaty provisions, it made ample allotments for the protection of the naval oil reserves, construction of the first ten of the 15 eight-inch gun cruisers, the modernization of the battleships Pennsylvania and Arizona, expansion of naval aviation and for the maintenance of a personnel of 84,500 enlisted men and 5,400 line, 2,011 staff and 1,455 warrant officers, besides the maintenance of the marine corps.

The bill set aside $49,400,000 for ship building, of which $32,250,000 is to be expended on the construction of ten eight-inch gun cruisers and a new aircraft carrier of 13,800 tons. The remainder is to be spent on the submarines V-4 to V-9, inclusive, and the completion of the eight 10,000-ton cruiser program begun in 1924. The sum of $7,400,000 was allowed for modernization of the battleships Pennsylvania and Arizona. Under the shipbuilding item, the navy yard at New York was given $194,800, the Mare Island, Cal., yard, $257,317 and the Philadelphia yard, $112,883 for improvements necessary for the construction of cruisers in them.

Protect Oil. One provision in the measure would grant authority to President Hoover to expend $10,000,000 from any unused naval funds to protect the Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve in California from being drained by private companies producing oil on adjacent lands. Secretary Adams was allowed $175,000 for the care of naval oil reserves in Wyoming, California and Alaska.

The bureau of aeronautics was allotted $22,920,000, an increase of $605,000 over the current appropriation, with the authority to contract for airplanes to cost $10,000,000 to complete the five-year naval expansion program. The allotment included $1,800,000 for construction work on the two giant dirigibles being constructed for the navy at Akron, Ohio.

An allotment of $25,505,000 was made the marine corps, an increase of $625,000 over the current year. Of the total more than $16,000,000 is for pay, subsistence and transportation of personnel, which absorbed most of the increase.

$3,384,000 to Adams' Office. The office of Secretary Adams was allotted $3,384,000, of which $327,000 is for temporary government in the Virgin and other West Indian islands, and $25,000 for the Iloilo in Guam, while $1,525,000 is for pay.

The sum of $8,213,000 was set aside for the bureau of navigation. Of this $4,600,000 was allotted the naval reserve; $235,000 for the training station at Hampton Roads, Va.; $279,000 for the Great Lakes training station; $240,000 for the Newport (R. I.) station, and $180,000 for the training station at San Diego, California.

The bureau of engineering was allowed $20,592,000, the bureau of construction and repair $18,300,000, the bureau of ordnance $13,279,000, the bureau of medicine and surgery $2,241,000, the bureau of yards and docks, $8,437,000 for maintenance and $7,432,000 for public works.

The Naval Academy at Annapolis was given $2,005,000. The measure also set aside $39,000 for the naval library, $134,000 for the office of the judge advocate general, $72,000 for the office of chief of operations, $21,000 for the board of inspection and survey, $133,000 for naval communications and $41,000 for naval intelligence.

Forest Fires in East Now Under Control

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Forest fires which have been burning along the north Atlantic seaboard for several days were nearly all extinguished today or under control. Several fires still burned unabated in Massachusetts but in Maine, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island the peak of the fire menace apparently had passed.

A forest fire in the Amandar mountain section of Massachusetts which has been burning for several days broke out with increased fury today. Hundreds of additional men were called upon to assist those who have been fighting the fire.

The authorities feared that the fire would sweep down the mountain into the Bash Bish Falls area and then on toward the Mt. Everett state reservation unless a heavy rain fell soon.

ATLANTA ELKS OPEN SEASON OF ACTIVITY

Series of Events Will Not Close Until Members Leave for July Convention.

Atlanta Elks tonight will initiate a series of events which will not come to a close until members of the order leave the last session of the grand lodge convention in Atlantic City in July. Past excited rulers will have charge of the meeting in the Elks home on Peachtree street tonight when plans for coming events will be taken up.

Mothers' Day, next Sunday, will find the Elks attending the Church of the Epiphany, Rector Russell K. Smith, in a body for services at 11 o'clock. The members will meet at the Peachtree street home at 10 o'clock that morning, where transportation will be furnished.

The lodge will visit Macon via motorcade Wednesday, May 21, where Grand Exalter Ruler Walter P. An-draws will make an official visit and will deliver an address following initiation of candidates from all over the state.

The annual convention of the Georgia Elks' Association will open the following day at Milledgeville, with the motorcade continuing from Macon to that city early Thursday morning. During the convention Atlanta lodge's "Purple Devils" patrol and the Atlanta Antlers junior order band will take part in the parade.

the Elks Magazine, on their way to the grand lodge convention at Atlantic City. On that evening the grand exalted ruler will make his official visitation to Atlanta lodge.

SARGON SAVED THE DAY FOR HIM, SAYS L. L. EWING

Power Co. Veteran Was in About as Bad Shape as a Man Could Be, He Says.

"In my opinion Sargon is the finest medicine ever put before the public and the day I started taking it was the turning point in my life," recently stated Linton L. Ewing, 1230

LINTON L. EWING.

Colmer Ave., S. E., Atlanta, for 25 years an employee of the Georgia Power Co., a member of the East Side Baptist Church and a highly esteemed citizen.

"I think I had about everything the matter with me that a man could have and keep going. My kidneys seemed out of order and at times my body would feel cold and numb all over. My pulse often got so weak I thought it would stop altogether. I lost weight rapidly and was so weak and rundown I couldn't work half the time. I believe I had about as stubborn case of constipation as any man ever had and sometimes I'd go three and four days without a bowel movement."

"Four bottles of Sargon put my kidneys to working fine. I have a good appetite, my digestion is perfect and I've gained 25 pounds of the weight I lost. I put in seven days a week now, am strong and vigorous and feel good all the time, and my circulation seems as good as it ever was."

"Sargon Pills regulated me perfectly. I never will be able to say enough for the Sargon treatment."

Go to Jacobs' Main Store, 48 North Broad St., Grant Bldg., and meet the Sargon Man. He will give you the astonishing facts about this wonderful medicine which is accomplishing such remarkable results all over the country. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

The NEW Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon

A really STUNNING TIRE you ought to see

It isn't enough to call the new Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon an extra-mileage tire—it's an extra-style tire as well.

Once your car is shod with them, it takes on a new and smarter look; it stands proudly on a more solid and distinctive foundation.

In the first place this new Heavy Duty Balloon is bigger, handsomer, more massive; and around its sleek black side-walls runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

Then the outer rows of All-Weather blocks on both sides of the deep-cut extra-thick tread are prised down into the side-wall, a touch as arresting as anything in modern sculpture.

The essential merit of this tire of course is in its capacity for extra mileage—it is made stronger and tougher in every part to withstand hard, fast, rocky-road driving.

Before you buy your next tire be sure you see this stunning Goodyear Heavy Duty—you owe it to yourself not to overlook its remarkable advantages.

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than

of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

most graft and corruption from the city government. When we meet Friday night, according to all indications, Atlanta will be thoroughly represented by leading citizens from every section. Interest manifested by the rank and file of Atlantans, Mr. Huddleston declared, augurs well for a largely attended gathering. He emphasized the fact that his committee, comprising himself as chairman, W. W. Matthews, vice chairman, and John Burdine, secretary, will have nothing to offer the assemblage in the way of recommendations for the personnel of the proposed independent city ticket. "We will simply make all arrangements for the meeting," he explained, "leaving to the citizens themselves the selection of their own leaders for the June primary. I feel sure that every ward will be ably presented and it will be entirely up to the people themselves who will be nominated."

He declared that he and his associates on the steering committee had arrived at no attitude toward incumbent city officials or others who already have announced their intention to enter the lists for election or reelection. That likewise, he asserted, will be left entirely to the voice of Friday night's mass meeting.

Interprets Action.
In interpreting the action of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, of which she is president, Miss Eleanore Raoul declared:

"One of the league's principal functions is to aid in obtaining non-partisan methods of procedure."

"In response to the question of what I would consider a democratic method of arriving at the necessary charter changes, I would suggest that all of the large organizations in Atlanta representing important phases of public thought be given the privilege of selecting two fair-minded citizens as members of a charter revision committee, not more than one of such members be selected from the organization making the choice."

"I think every organization would be on its mettle to select able citizens and that a report on charter provisions from any representative, non-partisan, non-political group would be worthy of a referendum to the people."

"What organizations do you think should be included?"
"It would be hard to suggest by name an adequate list off-hand, but I think that it is easy to say what groups should not be omitted. Capital, labor, the schools, women, the churches, including Protestant, Catholic, Jews, men's civic organizations. As labor considers that many organizations represent the point of view of capital, I think that every union of over 100 members might be given representation."

Florida Hotel Lease

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 7.—(P)—Sale of the lease and furnishings of the Carling hotel here to E. S. Richardson, of Lansing, Mich., was made public Wednesday by the Dinkler Hotels, Inc., through Elliott Burns, manager of the Carling. The consideration involved in the purchase was not made public.

Carlton L. Dinkler, president of the Dinkler Hotels Company, Inc., Wednesday explained that the transfer at Jacksonville affected only the operation of the large hotel and in no way affected the holdings of the Dinkler company in the property. The operating company stock was transferred but the holdings of the Dinkler company affecting the property remain the same, according to Mr. Dinkler.

Arkansas Barbers Effect Organization

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 7.—(P)—Thirty delegates today had organized the Arkansas Barbers' Association, elected 22 officers—20 of them vice presidents—and advocated high ethical standards in Arkansas barber shops.

A. E. Cross, of Camden, first president, declared the purpose of the organization to be double—to elevate the barbering profession and to seek legislative protection for its members. The newly organized association formed a committee to evolve a bill for presentation to the state legislature "that will protect the public against many evils, govern every phase of the profession from student barber to master barber and set a strict standard for our barber colleges."

of a space of 300 square feet each, but this is subject to revision after submission to the various department chiefs, who will be called upon to specify their office requirements.

Two Entrances Planned.
Arrangements being made call for two main commodious and ornate entrances to the building, one on Forsyth street and the other on the Spring street viaduct, with a secondary entrance fronting on the Hunter street ramp.

It is a part of the plans to construct a tunnel from the lower floor to the Atlanta Terminal station to permit the rapid transportation of mail. The lower floor will be below the Spring street level and some 22 feet high, fronting on Forsyth street.

As for the present postoffice building at Forsyth and Walton, which will continue to be used as the main post office station, it was explained that the plans contemplate the expenditure of some $150,000 of the funds for remodeling and improvements in order to provide better quarters for the federal court. The only agencies to remain in the present structure, aside from the main postoffice station and the federal court, will be the United States district attorney's office, the United States marshal's office and the office of the internal revenue collector.

Although the present authorization for the Atlanta project is only $2,100,000 officials have already asked the budget bureau to increase the authorization to the full $2,875,000 and expect that this will be acted upon by congress before adjournment. After a definite agreement is reached with the owners as to sale price, the next step of the government will be to have all titles examined preparatory to the final transfer. Actual work on the project may start in the late fall or be delayed until next spring, depending on the progress with which negotiations and plans move.

PROTEST VOICED AGAINST LOCATION

Protest against the selection of the new Atlanta postoffice site was voiced Wednesday, opponents of the Spring-Hunter-Forsyth streets location sending telegrams to officials at Washington expressing their views.

Ivan Allen, spokesman of the group, stated in the message that they objected to spending millions of dollars for a new postoffice to be placed on railroad tracks amid "smoke, dirt and noise." Mr. Allen said, "all that belongs south of the viaducts is the railroad postal unit."

Many of the telegrams sent to Washington were from civic clubs and others who last week joined in a petition asking the government to erect a new structure at the corner of Fairlie and Walton streets to be connected with the present building by two arcades across the former street.

W. A. CARLISLE DIES AT GAINESVILLE HOME

Prominent North Georgian
Succumbs to Illness of Six Months.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 7.—William Austin Carlisle, industrial agent and head of the industrial department of the Georgia Power Company, died at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in a hospital here, following a stroke of paralysis Monday night. Mr. Carlisle had made his home for many years in Gainesville and was one of the pioneers in north Georgia manufacturing and hydro-electric power enterprises.

Born in Newton Falls, Ohio, January 20, 1862, Mr. Carlisle was educated in Ohio and was graduated from Mount Vernon College, Ohio, with the degree of civil engineer. Several years later he was married to Miss Madeline Thompson, of Coshocton, Ohio.

After serving as civil engineer with the Pennsylvania railroad for several years, he moved to the south nearly 30 years ago. Under his supervision, the original power plant of the North Georgia Power Company was built on the Chattahoochee river, three miles north of Gainesville. Mr. Carlisle served as president of the Gainesville Electric Company, successor to the North Georgia Power Company, for many years.

Upon the consolidation of this company with the predecessors of the Georgia Power Company, Mr. Carlisle joined the staff of the consolidated company and for about 10 years had been in charge of the industrial department of the Georgia Power Company. He traveled extensively throughout the United States in the interest of southern industrial development and brought many new industries to Georgia as the result of his activities. In addition to this work, he served as president for some time of the Mesquite Company of St. Louis. He resigned this post more than a year ago.

Mr. Carlisle was a member of the Blue Lodge of Masons and was a member of the Presbyterian church. He was prominently connected with business, religious and civic activities in Gainesville. The field of education also drew his interest as a trustee of Bremen College.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Friday morning, with the Rev. Douglas Wauchop, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in Alta Vista cemetery.

Mr. Carlisle is survived by his widow, a son, William T. Carlisle, of Gainesville, and two brothers, Frank L. Carlisle, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Charles D. Carlisle, of Kansas City, Mo.

M. S. HODGSON HEADS UNIVERSITY Y. M. C. A.

ATHENS, Ga., May 7.—(AP)—Morton S. Hodgson, well known Athens business man, has been elected president of the board of directors of the University of Georgia Young Men's Christian Association, it was announced.

Dr. A. W. Scott, head of the chemistry department at the university, B. M. Grier, superintendent of Athens city schools, and Professor J. Alton Hosch, of the university law school, were re-elected vice president, secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Many Resolutions Feature Meeting of Women's Clubs

MACON, Ga., May 7.—After the election of Mrs. S. V. Sanford, of Athens, as president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs at Wednesday's session of the biennial convention, Mrs. A. H. Brenner, of Augusta, the retiring president, declined the honor of presiding for the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, which is usually given to the retiring head of the federation.

Mrs. James E. Hays, of Montezuma, led a movement seeking a change in the constitution of the federation to an election necessary for the naming of the past presidents on the board of directors for life. Mrs. J. K. Otley, of Atlanta, led the forces opposing the change. Under the present constitution, past presidents automatically become members of the board of directors for life. Almost half of the morning session was spent in the debate over the proposal which was defeated.

Uniform Vehicle Code.
The uniform vehicle code resolution was presented Wednesday to the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs assembled in its division of good will and its legislative chairman, to assist in conforming the terms of vehicle bill to the interests and needs of the state. The code is the result of efforts through the organization of the state federation in obtaining its passage.

The resolution provided, however, "that nothing herein authorizes, or shall be considered as authorizing the alignment of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs with a political group, or placing the federation in politics. The sole purpose of this resolution is to lend assistance of the federation in performing the public service of passing an efficient motor vehicle law for the state of Georgia. It is and has been the purpose of the state club women to assist in every way possible in matters of public welfare and the safety of highways and the operation of vehicles thereon affects the interests of a vast majority of citizens."

To Protect National Bird.
Realizing that measures should be taken for the protection and preservation of the national bird, the bald eagle, the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs adopted a resolution to read for its approval senate bill 2908, by Senator Peter S. Norbeck, and house bill 7904, by Augustus H. Anderson, Monday morning. The resolution provides that each club urge Georgia senators and congressmen to support the preservation measure. A copy of the club's resolutions as adopted will be sent to T. Gilbert Pearson, chairman of national committee on wild life legislation. Mrs. L. C. Waldrop, of Tallapoosa, chairman of conservation of national resources, will sign it.

World Court Resolution.
Georgia clubwomen expect to ratify the action of the executive board, taken last October in Atlanta, which endorsed the original proposal of President Harding on February 24, 1923, for accession to the United States to the World Court and will urge the senate "to ratify without delay the new protocol when presented, in order to bring to a just conclusion the six-year long movement so widely endorsed by American people." Mrs. David Nochnan, of Augusta, international relations chairman, offered the original resolution and Mrs. R. E. Lee, of Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Henry M. Bird, of Bowden, presented the resolution calling for federation action.

Action on Ella Wreite Fund.
Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, state treasurer; Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, of Madison, chairman of Ella F. White Foundation; Mrs. A. P. Bradley, director for Georgia in general federation; Mrs. A. H. Brenner, of Augusta, presented the resolution which proposed that clubs of Georgia federation concentrate upon an effort to complete the 75-cent per capita endowment gift plan of Ella F. White Foundation which now lacks about $2,500 and that the interest of the Ella F. White Foundation to the amount of

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of chronic constipation. Bostwick Brothers May Lose License

Proceedings directed toward revocation of the license of Bostwick Brothers, local wholesale druggists, to handle grain alcohol were heard Wednesday at the federal building before R. E. Tuttle, of Savannah, prohibition administrator for Georgia and Florida.

The proceedings, Deputy Administrator E. P. Wright said, were connected with the government's investigation of Jamaica ginger distribution. No decision was made, but the record of the case will be forwarded to Washington for action. The hearing was secret, and no announcement of the evidence was made.

Music, Health Weeks Observed by Masons

An address by Dr. C. C. Aven on the subject of public health, and a vocational and instrumental program of music by Miss Minna Hecker, Miss Irene Lettich and James de la Fuente featured the regular weekly meeting at the Piedmont of the Masonic Club Wednesday, which was devoted to the observance jointly of National Music and National Health Weeks.

Other speakers included Dr. Claude Hughes, Julian Boehm, Robert H. Jones, Jr., and Herbert Porter, while Bert Flynn, local entertainer, augmented the entertainment features of the program with a one-man version of Amos 'n' Andy. B. C. Broyles presided.

At the meeting a resolution which according to the Masons "requested, ordered, directed and forced" the parents of a grandson of Julian Boehm to name the child Julian Boehm Mohr, was passed. The child, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mohr, is the only grandson of Julian Boehm and is but a few days old. In fact, it already had been named Samuel Mohr, Jr., but the Atlanta Masonic Club took a hand. It is said that their wishes will be complied with.

Receiver Is Asked For Metropolitan

Operation of the Metropolitan theater by John A. Comay, who leased the theater for five years, Wednesday struck legal snags when Comay was sued by the Metropolitan company, owner of the theater, for a receivership, on the ground that the lessee is in arrears on the rent.

Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, set the case for Saturday and appointed George B. Tidwell as a temporary receiver for Comay's affairs at the Metropolitan. The Metropolitan company alleges that Comay is indebted to the company for $1,600, and asks judgment for that amount. The petition charges that Comay is insolvent and has admitted owing the plaintiff and other creditors approximately $10,000. The petition alleges that the lease contract calls for rent at $500 a week. Comay began operation of the theater in February.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

A demonstration tells you why it's wise to choose a six

Everywhere, buyers in the low-price field are agreeing "It's wise to choose a Six." And if you want to know why—get a demonstration of the Chevrolet Six and learn what an amazing difference two more cylinders make!

The Chevrolet Six is always smooth. When you idle the motor—drive fast in second—or travel at top speed—the power flows easily and evenly. And everyone in the car enjoys a pleasant, restful ride.

Developing 50 horsepower, the Chevrolet motor is also a marvel of flexibility. Needless gear shifting is avoided. And on the steepest hill, there is a reserve of power more than equal to every need.

And six-cylinder smoothness protects the entire chassis from the destructive effect of continuous vibration. As a result, the whole car lasts longer—and resale value is increased.

Moreover, a demonstration reveals many other reasons why buyers are agreeing it's wise to choose a Chevrolet Six.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

NANNY MEADOW MOUSE DECIDES MATTERS.

Decide on something; you will find relief in making up your mind.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Peter Rabbit having satisfied his curiosity about Kill, the Sparrow Hawk, remembered how anxious Nanny Meadow Mouse had been. So Peter went back to look for him. He didn't find him. In fact, it wasn't until a week later when Peter again happened to be over in the Long Lane that he discovered Nanny Meadow Mouse. It was just at dusk. Peter was hopping along down the Long Lane when some one scurried across just in front of him. Peter didn't get a good look at this small person and he was just about to hop over in the bushes into which this small person had disappeared when another hurrying little form almost ran into him.

"Well, Danny Meadow Mouse, what is your hurry?" demanded Peter, for it was, indeed, Danny Meadow Mouse. "Oh," squeaked Danny, "what a fright you gave me! What a dreadful sight! I didn't see you at all." "Huh!" said Peter. "If you don't use your eyes any better than that, I don't see how it is that you have escaped so long. Who was that you were chasing?"

"I wasn't chasing anyone," retorted Danny somewhat crossly. "I was just following Nanny."

"So that was Nanny Meadow Mouse who ran across in front of me first?" said Peter.

"Yes, that was Nanny Meadow Mouse. What of it?" said another squeaky little voice. And Peter turned to see Nanny herself pecking out from the bushes.

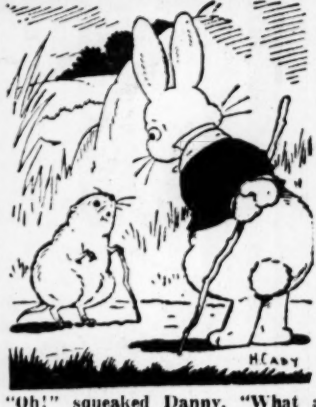

Peter's eyes twinkled. "What were you running away from Danny for?" he demanded.

"I wasn't running away from Danny," squeaked Nanny, and it was a very indignant squeak. "Nanny Meadow Mouse couldn't make me run away from him. I'm not afraid of Danny and I never was. I was just leading the way."

"Oh, excuse me," said Peter politely. "And where were you leading the way to?"

"It isn't any business of yours, Peter Rabbit," squeaked Nanny. "Come on, Danny, we must be going."

"Why this hurry?" asked Peter. "You might at least tell an old friend

"Oh!" squeaked Danny. "What a fright you gave me!"

where you are going."

"I don't know where we're going," squeaked Nanny. "We're just going and it's time we were on our way."

"You see," explained Danny, "we haven't found Kill yet. Kill the Sparrow Hawk caught one of the children. Mr. Blacksnake swallowed another. The others have all gone out into the great world. We don't know where they are. So now Nanny and I have decided that the time has come for us to get away from here. With those Sparrow Hawks living 'most' over our heads, we do not have a minute of peace during the day. So we are going to make a new home somewhere else. You remember when you saw me the other day I told you that we wanted to get away from here."

"So we're on our way," declared Nanny. "If we had waited for Danny to decide to move, we'd still be waiting. He was always talking about moving, but whenever I proposed that we move he would put it off. So I decided to settle the matter. I just told him that I was going and he could come along if he wanted to, and if he didn't, he needn't. Come on, Danny! We want to be as far from here as possible by daylight."

'Divorcee' Presents

Shearer at Finest

Norma Shearer is a better actress and appears in a better picture than ever before in "The Divorcee." That may sound like a lot of territory to cover, particularly after remembering some of the star's successes in recent talking pictures—especially "Their Own Desires"—but is given as candid and well weighed opinion after a preview of the new screen masterpiece.

It is a sophisticated story Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer have given the little star, but it is the kind of thing she does exquisitely. They have surrounded her with a magnificent cast, including such stage stars as Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, Zella Sears, Conrad Nagel, Robert Elliott, etc. It is also directed by Robert Z. Leonard and he is to be especially thanked for making a strikingly intelligent talkie out of a plot which, in less capable hands, could easily have become banal and melodramatic.

The story's problem, frankly, is the double sex standard for men and women. It deals with a wife, divorced for infidelity, and her subsequent career in the midst of a fast and thoughtless society set. It handles the theme daringly, but never objectionably, and the result is a screen play that grips your emotions completely and thrills you with a suspense seldom equaled and never surpassed in modern day entertainment.

The denouement is especially clever and logical. It would be unfair to reveal the plot here, for most all of you will see it for yourselves when it shows at Loew's Capitol next week.

—RALPH T. JONES.

Temperature of Fox

Low in Summertime

As the weather warms warmer Atlantans will begin to search for a place to cool off. That place, according to the management of the Fox theater, will not be hard to find, because it's always cool and comfortable at the Fox. Peachtree at Ponce de Leon will become a summer time polar region for Atlanta.

That's not only the official slogan of Atlanta's newest and most palatial playhouse, but it's a statement of fact. The elaborate and intricate cooling and ventilating system, built into the new Fox at a cost of more than $100,000, is without a peer in any public building in the south.

Three thousand cubic feet of air per patron per minute is forced through a curtain of cold water, then over frost-covered coils of pipe through a vast network of other pipes and tunnels into the theater proper. Since the seating capacity of the Fox is approximately 5,000, this means that 150,000 cubic feet of fresh, washed air is changed and circulated throughout the vast auditorium every minute from 1:15 until 11:30 o'clock, the hours during which the theater is open.

The machinery that operates this elaborate cooling and ventilating system controls the temperature within the theater, giving the house a temperature range of about 60 degrees.

RIALTO AGAIN HOLDS "BEAUX NIGHT" TODAY

Elated with the success of the idea last week, Miss Lillian Wade, manager of the Rialto theater, announced Wednesday that she would again hold a "girls, bring your beaux to the show" night tonight. Any time after 6 o'clock any girl accompanied by a male companion can get into the Rialto for one regular admission and 10 cents extra for the boy friend.

The feature picture is said to be one of the best seen here in weeks. It is "City Girl," with Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan in the star roles. Atlanta city girls, therefore, are invited by Miss Wade to bring the boy friends to see "City Girl" tonight at bargain prices.

Miss Margie Griffith, talented Atlanta musician, is playing the harp interludes which form an important part in the "atmosphere" of the charming production of "Smilin' Thru," this week's offering by the Erlanger Theater Players. There are few more exquisite performers on the harp than Miss Griffith and the strains of her music, floating out from back stage during the sweetest and most moving of the many moving moments in the play, are largely responsible for much of the emotional effect evidenced by the audiences.

Atlanta is giving a tremendous welcome this week to Margaret Clayton, new leading lady of the Erlanger Theater Players. In her role of Moon-yeen she is deliciously alluring and has proven an actress of rare gifts. She will further display her professional ability in an entirely different type of role when she plays Toni in "The Garden of Eden" next week.

There will be the usual Thursday afternoon bargain matinee today, with the same ridiculously low scale of prices in effect.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—A man who confessed he set fires in stores and shops in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania for amounts ranging from $1,000 to $5,000, payable out of the insurance the owners collected, today was sentenced to a term of 12 1/2 to 25 years in Sing Sing prison.

Benjamin Greenberg, one of his customers, was sentenced to not more than 10 nor less than 3 years in Sing Sing.

Three other defendants, all of whom pleaded guilty, were given terms in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

They were charged with using the mails to defraud in making fraudulent claims for insurance. They are Louis Bachis, who was sentenced to 3 years; Jacob Bachis and Hyman Lerner, who were sentenced each to a year and a day. All of those sentenced are New Yorkers.

The sentences were imposed jointly by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard and General Sessions Judge Max S. Levine.

Why Ice Cream Is So Popular

ASK THE YOUNGSTER at the counter, or the young lady receiving a de luxe pint package to take home. Then ask yourself if you ever saw young persons or older folks eating ice cream without smiles on their faces.

Ice cream and frowns simply do not go together!

It may be because ice cream was originally a Southern product—it originated in Baltimore—or because the Southerners learned how to make it best, but the fact remains that this section is the Ice Cream Principality of America.

The Velvet Kind ICE CREAM

sums up all the knowledge and skill, all the purity of content and delicacy of flavor, that this prolific section has been able to bestow upon this wonderful dessert since the first freezer was made.

Authorities on nutrition long have been calling attention to ice cream as a health food. Yet the difficulty of procuring fine ice cream without making it at home has kept it in the class of "delicacies" in many cities.

The Velvet Kind Ice Cream, obtainable just around the corner, is made according to standards approved by the country's best housekeepers, doctors and diet experts. Southern Dairies ice cream plants are paragons of sanitary cleanliness. Methods of freezing are modern and scientific. Purest, richest milk and cream are used. How's Your ADVERTISING "Overhead"?

A PERTINENT THOUGHT FOR THOSE SEEKING GREATER SALES AT LOWER ADVERTISING COST.

As a wide-awake merchant you're tuning your business to the times—revising your merchandising policies—demanding greater turnover—cutting out needless expense.

Advertising is as much a part of your selling effort as your sales force itself and yet—have you adjusted your advertising to meet current conditions?

Are you buying newspaper space on the basis of "circulation coverage" as it existed one, two or three years ago—or as it is right now?

Unless you've recently analyzed your advertising—unless you've gathered up-to-the minute facts on the circulation of the three Atlanta newspapers—there's strong likelihood that your advertising "overhead" is too high. Why not do something about it?

To help merchants and manufacturers apply the same analysis to advertising costs that they make of other selling expense, The Constitution recently made the most thorough circulation survey ever conducted in Atlanta.

The purpose: To determine the duplication of circulation of the three Atlanta newspapers; to show how much exclusive circulation each newspaper has; to make it possible for the advertiser to buy advertising on a 1930 basis—get the greatest returns per dollar expended.

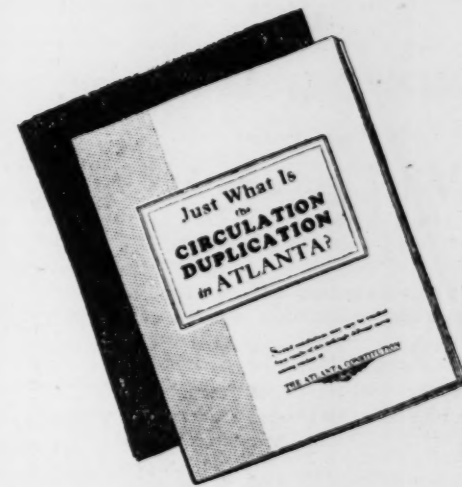

The result: This survey report, a book of accurate, helpful information that will be invaluable to you in buying advertising space more profitably.

"Duplication" means "waste" in newspaper circulation. Use of the information contained in this survey report will help you eliminate waste in advertising—enable you to reduce your advertising "overhead."

Miss Isabelle Breitenbucher And William Fulghum Wed

The marriage of Miss Isabelle Breitenbucher, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Breitenbucher, and William Fulghum, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lamar Fulghum, of Augusta, was quietly solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church at Peachtree and Sixteenth streets. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. Sproule Lyons, pastor of the church, assisted by Bishop H. J. Mikell.

The church was beautifully decorated with quantities of palms, ferns and Easter lilies. Forming a background at the altar were tall palm-trees and ferns. On either side of the altar were placed two large baskets holding Easter lilies and double larkspur. In the center was a tall white basket filled with Easter lilies and artistically arranged with valley lilies, smilax was entwined at intervals around the pillars of the church, and the pews marking the seats of members of the family were marked with white satin ribbon.

Preceding the ceremony a beautiful program of nuptial music was rendered by Charles A. Sheldon, Jr. The program consisted of "Cantilena Nuptial" by Dulliois, and "Evening Star" from Tannhauser. For the procession the bride's maid from "Lohengrin" by Wagner, was played, and Mendelssohn's wedding march, from "Midsummer Night's Dream," was played as the recessional. During the ceremony "I Love Thee," by Greig, was softly rendered.

Entering first were the ushers, who were George Breitenbucher, Jr., brother of the bride, and James Fulghum, of Augusta, brother of the groom. The bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Oliver, cousin of the bride, and Miss Maymie Jones, of Elberton, wore gowns of yellow net, made with light fitting waistlines, princess style. At the waistline were small tucks, and the skirts were long and gracefully fell to the floor in folds, being made in circular sections. They carried large bouquets of yellow Pernet roses, combined with blue delphinium and valley lilies. Miss Henrietta Mikell, the lovely maid of honor, entered alone wearing a similar gown as those of the bridesmaids, and she carried a large arm bouquet of the yellow Pernet roses and delphinium showered with valley lilies.

Lovely Bride.

The beautiful bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Hervey Cleckley, of Augusta.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory net made princess style, with long flowing skirt, the skirt forming the train. The waistline was fitted in and the neckline was V shape and the sleeves long and tight. Her only ornament was a string of tiny seed pearls. The veil, which was the bride's veil of Mrs. Charles Mikell, Jr., formerly Miss Mary Louise Brumby, was exceptionally beautiful and was made of real Duchess lace, falling in graceful folds in the back. It was made cap shape and fitted close to the head. She carried an exquisite bridal bouquet of white gardenias and maidenhair fern, and tied with Duchess lace. Her slippers were of ivory moire.

Mrs. Breitenbucher, mother of the bride, was gowned in black chiffon, trimmed with large hat to match. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias and valley lilies.

Mrs. J. Ware Holliday, of Miami, Fla., sister of the bride, was gowned in beige chiffon with hat to match and corsage of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Fulghum, mother of the groom, Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and restores sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bit of honey, or a little lemon juice, and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying—(adv.)

Miss Forbes Weds Earl F. Alcorn At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Jessie Belle Forbes and Earl F. Alcorn was solemnized yesterday morning at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Watkins on Cumberland road. Rev. Carl McMurray, pastor of the Morningside Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and a few close friends. Miss Elizabeth Morris played an appropriate program of musical music, using the Lohengrin bridal chorus for the entrance of the bride party.

Bridal Party. The bride chose as her maid of honor Miss Eunice Brown, who was lovely in a chic model of yellow tulle fashioned with fitted bodice and uncovered hemline. She wore a large horse hair hat of yellow and a shoulder corsage of yellow roses and gardenias. John Alcorn, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The bride entered with her uncle, Nicholas Watkins, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a bridal gown, an exquisite creation of cream lace made along princess lines with long, tight-fitting sleeves and jacket effect. She carried an arm bouquet of Daisies roses and lavender. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served the guests, who were seated at individual flower-decked tables.

Lovely Costumes. Mrs. Watkins, aunt of the bride, wore yellow georgette and a shoulder spray of yellow roses and white sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. O. K. J. Alcorn, wore a gown of handsome black lace and her flowers were lavender sweet peas and pink roses. Mrs. Jessie Forbes, grandmother of the bride, was gowned in gray chiffon, which she wore with a shoulder spray of pink roses and valley lilies. Later in the afternoon the young couple left by motor for Texas, and upon their return will make their home on Yorkshire road. The bride wore, for traveling, an ensemble of navy blue crepe with a blouse of white, dotted with navy blue, and a small hat of navy straw.

Mrs. Oliver, who has made her home in Atlanta for the past eleven years, having exhibited here throughout that time, has studied extensively in America and abroad, and has perfected a technique which is distinctive and indicative of a profound conception of the best in the old and modern schools. The exhibition is open to the public from 9 until 12 o'clock and from 1 until 4 o'clock Monday through Wednesday, and Friday evenings, and from 3 to 5 o'clock on Sundays.

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

The gas sang softly, and a motor-car honked in the distant street. Casey softly expelled a long breath, and her delicate, brown young breast, framed in the blue taffeta and silver roses, moved again. Presently, in a silence as tense as a drawn bow-string, both smiled.

Then the color rushed into her face, and she laughed, in confusion and pleasure. Immediately she was on her feet, and with one glowing nod to him, she vanished through the swinging door.

Casey, ashamed, excited, flattered, scared, went upstairs on wings, and shut the door behind her.

She did not think of Wallace; she thought of everything else. She put her gown away carefully, and snapped the trees into her slippers, and pinned her hair severely back, to wash her face with all her old childhood thoroughness. Then she brushed the hair into a cloud, and tossed it about like an orrison of smoke, and did a sort of dance in her pale pink silk pajamas, with the peaches and peach leaves stenciled on them.

"The most delicate linens and laces," her thoughts ran excitedly. "A mass of luxurious pillows, couching her slender young body—" With a laugh that rang oddly in the quiet place, she sprang into bed, and opened her book at random, conscious, even while she read, of her own thrilling young body, of her own beauty and sweetly back, to wash her face with all her old childhood thoroughness. Then she brushed the hair into a cloud, and tossed it about like an orrison of smoke, and did a sort of dance in her pale pink silk pajamas, with the peaches and peach leaves stenciled on them.

Daniel Wallace's words, and the memory of his look as he said them, faded into utter dullness and meaninglessness, when the bright, clear winter morning broke, and Casey excluded them from her thoughts all day. But the next night she remembered them again.

On Wednesday, after three days of a bewilderment of spirit, arising from the conflict between cloud by day, and fire by night, Casey had occasion, or rather made the occasion, to go out to the garage and tell Wallace that she and mama were going to a lecture at the Women's Club tonight.

"I was going off tonight, but I can go tomorrow night just as well. I'll fix it with your father," Wallace said, picking up a rag.

Why, he was just a servant, complaining of his days off, like any other servant! Casey held her head high, and her cheeks burned with shame, as she walked back to the house.

The moment marked a painful change in her; she took a step forward into womanhood that could never be retraced. There was no immediate evidence of change; she was quite unconscious of it. She only knew that life had become insufferably dull, and that she was sick of it.

The days went on, the weeks and months went on. Everything was just as it had always been, and yet everything was completely—even shockingly—different. Casey moved through her life like a creature in a troubled dream. The passing of time distressed and frightened her, for the first time. She had never been conscious of time before.

Her clothes ceased to interest her; the very sight of them chilled her. Of what use were clothes? Clothes were not living! Casey's twenty-second birthday was a nightmare. The years were racing by, marked by checks from papa, stockings from mama, and books—Ruskin and Pater—from Gertrude. Soon she would be thirty-five, and Gertrude forty-eight, and everything at home would be just the same.

When Macallister Jessop and Blanche Pryor were to be married, early in March, Casey was thrilled by being asked to be a bridesmaid. But her father refused to entertain the idea for a moment.

"It's a pure business courtesy," he said witheringly, "and I won't have you forming an intimacy in that direction."

"But Papa, I've known Blanche all my life! We were in school together."

"And is the idea to cultivate all the girls who happened to be in school when you were there?"

"No, of course not. But I'd love to be a bridesmaid, sitting at the bride's table, and talking about clothes, and everything!"

"Well," said her father coolly,

"sometime, perhaps. But not this time!"

"I'm twenty-two!" Casey muttered rebelliously.

"I'm aware of it. What has that got to do with it?"

"Well, only—well, only—" Casey didn't know what was the matter with her, her throat was thickening, she was going to cry. Up to this point she had felt entirely indifferent to Blanche's invitation, now suddenly she was passionately concerned about it.

"Well, only—when I'm going to begin doing things, and going places?" she blurted out.

"Doing what things? Going what places?" he asked measuredly, in a dead silence.

"Well—I never meet any one here—I never will meet any men, here—"

This was exactly what Casey had not meant to say. She stopped abruptly, horrified at her own daring.

Her father studied her for a full, dreadful minute, over his glasses. Then he returned quietly to his book.

"When the time comes, there won't be any trouble about that," he said. "Any young man of whom I approve will be made most welcome in my home."

One night there was a warm discussion at the dinner table about the Library Extension lecture on "The Days of the Terror." Gertrude could not go because there was a Guild meeting, papa was stricken with one of his neuralgic headaches, and meant to collapse into bed right after his usual four-course dinner, and mama would of course have to stay with papa. Casey, bored and ungracious, said that she didn't care a rap about the old history course.

But this fired her father's ready antagonism, and he observed acidly that he did care about it. It was an educational opportunity that some of the most brilliant persons in town were only too thankful—

There was a great deal of this, and then it was decided that mama should telephone the Butlers, and Casey should be put into their care for the evening. It was suddenly remembered that the Butlers had no telephone, but Casey could drive there with Wallace, and Wallace could run up their steps and see if they would go.

This arrangement being approved, Casey descending at quarter to eight to the side door, and to Wallace, in the big car.

Gertrude, and her mother and father were all awake, of course, when she returned at quarter to eleven. Gertrude emerged from her doorway in her gray and blue silk wrapper, and mama invited Casey into her own dreary boudoir, to regale poor convalescent papa with a report of the lecture.

"The Butlers weren't there, papa. They're over in Oakland, with Mrs. Butler's father. He's dying."

"I remember," said Leroy Pringle, nodding thoughtfully. "Heavens! I hate the idea of your running up their steps and talking to servants in an empty house!" Gertrude exclaimed anxiously.

"I didn't, Gertrude said." "Did you go to the lecture all alone, you little runaway?" Gertrude demanded fondly.

Casey nodded solemnly, and Gertrude laughed aloud.

"That was all right. Didn't you find it interesting?" her father pursued.

"Oh, very, papa! The best of the series. It was all about the revolution being a revolution within a revolution."

"Exactly," he said. Casey glanced about the gloomy, heavy room, dull in gas light, and smelt the familiar smells of carbolic and rust and rot.

And that night there was a long masquerade before the mirror, with all the old arch glasses, and the regal exalt and entrancement more impressive than ever before. Miss Pringle returned once more from the opera, with her arm full of roses.

"Who sent me these darlings? My favorites—"

Dan Wallace was there, and when she came to Dan, Casey felt her heart stop, and the palms of her hands grow wet, and the roof of her mouth dry.

When, dazed and quiet, she presently roused herself, it was to move through the customary preparations for the night like a sleepwalker. She got into bed, and from long custom opened her book.

Cedartown Wins, 14-2, in Georgia-Alabama League Inaugural CRACKERS WHIP BIRMINGHAM, 5-2, TO WIN SERIES

Dear old Mobile stays in the league; President-Manager Jimmy Hamilton and his Bears stay down there on the golf.

Gummy Flournoy, the kindly baseball writer, who has been suffering with Mobile baseball clubs for these many, lo, seasons, will not be deprived of his pets.

All that resulted from the decision of Southern league directors yesterday not to transfer the Mobile franchise to Knoxville.

Whether flirting with Knoxville interests cost President-Manager Jimmy Hamilton any favor in the little city remains to be seen. Fans are not a forgiving lot and Jimmy has a lot to live down now.

Baseball writers who follow the Crackers around the circuit in midseason will welcome the news that Mobile is not to be cut out.

It may be hotter than a firebox on the Crescent Limited; ants may storm and capture your hotel room; the nights may be tepid and sleepless—but the shrimp and the sea trout and the matchless cookery of several of the restaurants make up for all discomforts of a series in Mobile. And nowhere can finer folks be found than in the Mobile newspaper set.

HOW TANNERY WON THE BLUEGRASS.

Barney Dreyfus, the sporting goods man, writes from Lexington, Ky., a fine letter about Derby horses in general and Tannery, the idol of the Bluegrass, in particular.

Excerpts show how the Bluegrass has forgotten the Bradley pair and looked to the silks of the Pritchard candidate. He says in part:

"Run up here for a little rest, recreation and excitement. Right now it's practically all the latter, because as is usual at this time each year the Kentucky Derby takes precedence over everything, and this year it's boiling as never before, because not only is Lord Derby, of England, to be in attendance, but the Kentucky 'Hard Boots' are, to a man, backing a Kentucky horse to win this classic again this year.

"Tannery, chestnut colt by Ballot-Blemished, owned by Mr. E. F. Pritchard, one of the most popular horsemen in Kentucky, is their choice.

"It was my pleasure and good fortune to be the guest of Mr. Clyde Van Dusen in his box at the Lexington races today. Mr. Van Dusen, as you know, is trainer of his famous namesake who won the Derby last year, and one of the smartest horsemen in Kentucky.

"The sixth event on the program was in the nature of a special for 3-year-olds, at 11-16 miles, three accepting the issue. Tannery, and an entry from E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm, Breezein Thru, and Buckeye Post, Colonel Bradley's best barrels for the Derby. Both were in top condition—Buckeye Post had on the previous Saturday won easily by 2 1/2 lengths from Sarah and Camden's highly regarded Sydney and I. S. Ward's Dedicate, both Derby colts, the latter one of the winter colts favorites. Breezein Thru last year beat such a good colt as Spinach, one of the best 3-year-olds in the east.

"It is no secret that Mr. Bradley and his trainer, Dick Thompson, have considered the chances of their two colts very bright in the Derby.

"Mr. Van Dusen told me he thought it was a gallop for Tannery, and that the horse that beat him would win the Derby, and after observing the race his judgment was convincingly verified.

"They ran the mile and sixteenth in 1:44 3-5, about as fast as this distance has been run over the Lexington track since Bubbling Over's year. Tannery had up 115 pounds, 11 less than he will carry in the Derby, but he made a show of both Breezein Thru and Buckeye Post, and he handled his weight as though he can carry his Derby weight and go the distance. Fractional time for the race was 23 2-5, 47 1-5, 1:13, 1:38, 1:44 3-5. Analyzing this you will observe he ran the first quarter in 23 2-5, second quarter in 23 4-5, third quarter in 24 4-5, fourth quarter in 25, the last sixteenth in 6 3-5, eased up and going away. Assuming, as it appeared he could that day, have run the next sixteenth in 6 3-5, it would have taken him to the mile and eighth in 1:51 1-5. He would only have to run the final eighth in 12 3-5 to complete the Derby route of one mile and a quarter in 2:03 4-5, which will win this event easily, nine times out of ten. I believe Old Rosebud is the only one to equal or beat it.

"Should the track be muddy—so much the better for Tannery, as he is a superior mudder by breeding and in fact.

"As a 2-year-old he won five out of eight starts, including the Cincinnati Trophy at Latonia in fast time, was once second and twice unplaced, and carried high weight in all his starts, and horsemen think the Churchill Downs course will suit him to a 'T'.

"He has won both his starts buck-jumping and in fast time, with weight up and he has shown something on any other eligible to far. Dedicate has been declared out on account of a knee ailment, as has also Flying Helen, Saracen II, and Derby. Alcibiades, Sydney and other prominent Derby hopefuls have one by one failed to show anything to justify serious consideration."

THE SCHMELING BUILD-UP.

Walter Trumbull, an eastern sports authority, commenting on the astuteness of Joe Jacobs as manager of Max Schmeling in refusing a build-up campaign through the provinces, writes:

"Schmeling is a smart fighter and, whatever else you may say of him, Jacobs is a smart manager. Joe built Max to a contender for the title on four bouts—those with Monte, Sekyra, Risko and Paulino.

"A manager less shrewd would have taken Max on a tour through the sticks, avoiding opposition which looked tough, and perhaps have got him knocked over by some palooka.

"There are a lot of second and third raters who can hit. There are some sixth raters who can sock. Once in a while they land. Tuffy Griffiths knows that, and so does Carnera.

"A good man always takes a chance with a setup. When he is boxing some one of his own caliber, his mind is on his work. With contempt for his opposition, he grows careless and is likely to stick out his chin. And he forms habits that do him no good later on."

That is an interesting opinion from another angle. Young Strifling has been roundly scored in the east for never taking a chance. Those who said he took a chance every time he stepped into the ring with a palooka were laughed down. Yet his long record without a knockout and only two or three defeats must mean that he is better than he is generally rated.

HONOR IS SATISFIED, OR OUGHT TO BE.

The two-column hatchet has been buried by Brother Morgan Blake of the paper that covers Dixie like the mildew and the author, who represents the paper that covers the Journal like a tent.

We fought a duel last night just before supper over the radio. Some miscreant named Larry Caudill, who gives authoritative imitations of a horse, loaded the pistols with blanks.

So Brother Blake still lives to pursue his crusade for radio reports of Cracker home games for the benefit of the Scots, and I still am opposed for that very reason. But both of us are through campaigning, until one faction or the other lays a little on the line as the modernists put it.

SMITH'S HURLING GIVES 14-2 WIN TO CEDARTOWN

Huntsville Defeated in Opening Day Game of Georgia-Alabama.

By Ralph McGill.

Constitution Staff Correspondent. CEDARTOWN, Ga., May 7.—With the veteran Sherrod Smith pitching smart and consistent baseball, the Cedartown baseball team opened the Georgia-Alabama league season here today with a convincing 14-2 victory over Huntsville.

It was a most successful opening for one of the finest little minor leagues in baseball and the Cedartown team showed evidences of splendid training under the direction of Sherrod Smith, who was with the Crackers three seasons ago.

The old boy limped out to the rubber with a bad Charley-horse, but he could have had a couple more and still won the ball game. When he had to be bored down with a lot of power, baffling the Huntsville batters in a calm and slightly bored fashion that was startling to see. As an example, there was the seventh inning when three straight singles filled the bases, and absolutely no one was out.

GOES TO WORK.

With that situation staring him in the face the old boy hunched up his pants and went to work. He struck out the next man, caused the second one to force a man at the plate, and the third effort was a weak roller to short.

In fact, every time the Huntsville batters showed any signs of an uprising Sherry Smith quelled them in short order. Once a home run bounced over the center field when Outfielder McSwain hammered one that was perhaps the hardest hit of the day. Another time a single, a sacrifice and an additional single scored a run. They were the only two that Huntsville could accumulate.

Home Watkins, representing the citizens of Cedartown, presented Smith and his ball club with a huge floral offering before the game. It was the usual horseshoe, and did it bring luck?

CRACKER RECRUITS.

There were four Cracker recruits in the game with some others on the bench of the two clubs. Porchman Jim Hammond appeared at first base for Huntsville and wasn't so powerful. He hit one sacrifice fly and three other efforts weren't out of the infield. Ed Patterson, recruit catcher, was behind the plate for a while.

On the Cedartown team Ed McGhee and Lonnie Cleveland alternated at shortstop and Joe Segreves, pitcher, was on the bench but did not get into the game. Cleveland showed a marked ability to get on base. He took two in the ribs and was walked once.

Huntsville has a better team than the score indicates. They were off to a bad start when Cedartown grabbed a lead in the first inning on what was an unfortunate accident, if one happened to be looking at it from a Huntsville viewpoint. With two on, Second Baseman Jackson took a ground ball and twisted his ankle as he ran toward second to force a runner there. He fell and in the subsequent scramble two runners scored, errors aiding them. A passed ball let in the third run.

RESUME SCORING.

Cedartown resumed scoring in the third, getting two, and added one in the fourth. They hammered Amadee hard in the fifth and took a great lead in the evening. Collier threw out the sixth, he having relieved Amadee. The Huntsville defense was mothballed in the extreme. Collier steadied the finished well, but the damage was done.

There were more than 2,000 fans here, which was almost as large a crowd as saw Little Rock open, the Travelers drawing 3,000. The game today, the first one in what is the third season for the Georgia-Alabama league, will be followed by two games Tuesday and on Friday all teams will get in action.

Cedartown is enthusiastic over the team this year and believes it can finish out in front. The Georgia team is second.

Smith Instructs American Women

SOUTHPORT, England, May 7.—(AP)—Horton Smith had a day off today after qualifying in the northern professional championship tournament in which more than 300 pros are competing, so he put it to good use.

The young American star and Henry Cotton, English pro, went to Formby and coached the women practicing for the championships beginning May 12.

Smith lined up the whole American entry with dozens of balls, playing shots and giving hints and there Cotton similarly tutored some of the British competitors.

Canadian Cup Team Holds Workout

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—(UN)—Canadian Davis cup players held their first workout today on the new courts of the Philadelphia Country Club where they will meet the United States, May 15, 16 and 17, in the first round of American Zone Davis cup competition.

Dr. Jack Wright, Willard Crocker and Marcel Rainville, all of Montreal, participated in today's practice. The fourth player, Gilbert Nunn, of Toronto, will join his mates next week.

Paul W. Gibbons, president of the Philadelphia and Middle Atlantic States Tennis Association, has been appointed referee of the Davis cup matches.

Opening Day Scenes at Cedartown

They started the Georgia-Alabama Baseball league off in a big way up at Cedartown Wednesday afternoon, with floral good wishes, large first-day crowds and all. At the top, Homer Watkins, well-known Cedartown man, is presenting Sherry Smith, manager and pitcher of the club, with a floral luck offering while members of the Cedartown and Huntsville teams look on. Below, Lonnie Cleveland, Cracker property with Cedartown, is safe at home. The catcher, as you may see, dropped the ball. Cedartown won the game by a score of 14 to 2. Photo by Kenneth Rogers.

BOB AND TEAM TAKE PRACTICE

Four Enter St. George Tourney; Jones To Stay Out.

LONDON, May 7.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, playing his first hole of golf in the number one position in the world, sent a 200-yard drive straight down the middle, laid a massive shot four yards and took the regulation two putts for a par at the first hole of the Addington course where the full Walker cup squad had its initial practice.

Shooting at all the way out with a two at the ninth, Bobby reached the turn in 35 but like the other talkers he then began to repeat shots and cards meant nothing.

On the whole the Americans displayed the sort of golf Britain has come to expect from the other side of the Atlantic.

IDEAL COURSE. Captain Jones and his men found Addington, hidden away in the Surrey hills, ideal for their first practice, far from the London crowds. The Americans went out in two four-balls, one consisting of George Von Elm, Harrison Johnston, Roland Mackenzie and Francis Oumet, the other of Jones, George Voigt, Dr. O. F. Willing and Don Moore.

The consensus of the British experts who trailed Bobby was that he was hitting them farther and finer than ever and here, where new wrinkles in the ancient game are strenuously opposed, Bobby warmed their hearts by playing with the old hickory-shafted clubs which won him the first time in this country.

Von Elm also sticks to hickory but the other Walkers have mixed bags of steel and wood.

Jones often flashed his finest form today. That first drive outdistanced Voigt, Willing and Moore by 50 yards. At the 200-yard twelfth where he used a brassie for the only time in the tour he sent the ball into the teeth of the wind to the green.

Jones was consistently longer than his teammates in today's practice. Moore was very long with his woods but encountered considerable trouble with his irons. He has attracted much attention as a newcomer and the youngsters of the team.

Voigt, another American newcomer, impressed those who watched his play for the first time as a steady, painstaking player who will make a dangerous opponent in match play.

Dr. Willing seemed to show the effects of the ocean voyage more than the others. He pulled many shots and his sea legs affected his balance. Jones expressed satisfaction with the first day's golf and said his own was at least as good as any that he has shown on a course unfamiliar to him.

In the afternoon Jones played a dozen holes with Johnston and Von Elm, after which the Americans devoted themselves to individual practice. Oumet, Voigt, Willing and Mackenzie played a full practice round in the afternoon.

An added attraction at Addington was Doug Fairbanks and Leo Diegel. The former intends to play in the St. George's challenge cup competition at Sandwich Saturday, a 36-hole medal play event for the most prized stroke competition trophy in this country.

Von Elm, Willing, Voigt and Moore also are entered.

Six Bulldogs To Enter Conference Track Meet

Captain Young and Anderson, Steady Winners to Compete for Last Time.

ATHENS, Ga., May 7.—The University of Georgia will send to the Southern conference track and field meet in Birmingham six athletes. These men are Captain Robert Young, Johnny Maddox, Buck Anderson, Sandy Sanford, Carl Bernhardt and Jimmy Stinson.

While this number of Georgia representatives is small in quantity they should be able to make their presence felt in the scoring column. These six men have been the most consistent scorers in the 1930 schedule of six dual meets, being mainly responsible for winning four of these six meets.

Of these men Captain Young and Buck Anderson will be competing for the university for the last time. Young has been a very consistent winner in the mile and half-mile events, having won every race in dual meets in which he has competed in the last four years. In addition he has won the conference cross-country five-mile race the last two years. He is at present the record holder in both the half-mile and mile in the Southeastern A. A. U. having won both races in record time this year. He ran his mile in the time of 4 minutes 23 1-5 seconds, the second fastest mile that has been run in the south, coming back a little later to win the half-mile in 1 minute 50 seconds.

Max Schmeling Begins Working. BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 7.—(AP)—Max Schmeling arrived at his training camp here today and immediately put his stamp of approval on the place selected as the conditioning ground for his championship battle with Jack Sharkey at the Yankee stadium June 12.

With his sparring partners already in camp, Schmeling plans to start active training tomorrow.

Carnera Fights Godfrey June 23

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian, and George Godfrey, Leiperville negro, will meet in the Phillies' ball park on Monday night, June 23.

Announcement of the match was made today in behalf of Herman Taylor and Robert Gunnis, Philadelphia promoters, by Frank Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania state athletic commission.

Wiener stated that the seconds who will handle Carnera and Godfrey will have to be approved by him in order to insure against a repetition of the towel-tossing incident which occurred in Oakland, Cal., recently and resulted in the suspension of Carnera by the California and New York Athletic associations as well as by the National Boxing Association.

Garland S. Ferguson, Jr., chairman of the federal trade commission, presided.

Eleven resolutions were adopted by the conference, all of which were directed at false advertising and misrepresentation of the use of sporting goods products by the outstanding athletes in the various fields of sports.

Under the proposed code of ethics which must be offered by the commission, sporting goods manufacturers will be compelled to disclose the obligation existing between the athlete and manufacturer in the use of an endorsement, or the name of the player on the manufactured products.

Carlyle Here, Ready To Go

Giving Birmingham, Johnny Dobbs and his gang the w.k. run-around, Roy Carlyle, that slugging man from Norcross, Ga., pulled into the city Wednesday to await the return of the Crackers today.

The big slugger, purchased from Kansas City, said he was ready to go. Meantime John Dobbs is working his noggin overtime trying to decide who to turn loose in order to make room for Jack Knight, the new pitcher from the Pacific coast, and Carlyle, as the club is overstocked with infielders and pitchers, it is very likely that Dobbs will cast one of each.

MOBILE STAYS IN SOUTHERN

Decision Is Made at Meeting of Directors With Martin.

MOBILE, Ala., May 7.—(AP)—The vote by which Mobile will remain in the Southern Association after Manager Jimmy Hamilton presented a proposition that the franchise be transferred to Knoxville was not made public by President John D. Martin today following a meeting of the Southern Association directors. Just a simple statement that the directors met at Mobile and that the franchise would remain in this city was all that came from the meeting.

Those present at the meeting were John D. Martin, president, and the following directors: W. D. Smith, Birmingham; R. J. Spiller, Atlanta; Joe W. Engel, Chattanooga; R. G. Allen, Little Rock; Thomas R. Watkins, Memphis; Jimmy Hamilton, Mobile; Robert Overton, Nashville, and Larry Gilbert, New Orleans.

9 Entries Ready For Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md., May 7.—(AP)—Awaiting the official list of starters, expected tomorrow, racing observers here today believed 10 or fewer of the country's leading three-year-olds would face the barrier in the fortieth renewal of the $50,000 added Preakness at Pimlico on Friday.

In 1928, 18 started, the largest number to go to the post in the classic. Last year 11 started. Aside from the Belair stud's Galant Fox, overwhelming favorite because of his great record and his victory in the Kentucky Derby, the most likely last month over Crack Brigade and Desert Light, nine of the 78 nominations are believed sure to start.

They are: Audley Farm's Woodcraft; T. V. Cassidy's Crack Brigade; Glen Riddle farm's Full Dress; Walter M. Jeffords' Armageddon; John L. Hontius' Michigan Boy; Walter J. Salmon's Swindler and Snowflake; and Seagram stable's Sweet Sentiment and Sun Craze.

Desert Light, because of his poor showing both in the Wood and Monday's race at Pimlico, in which he finished 20 lengths behind Woodcraft, is out of this list.

23 Girls Enter Prep Tank Meet

Twenty-three girls from Decatur High school Wednesday entered the City Prep league swimming meet, which will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the Atlanta Athletic Club swimming pool. It is the first time in the history of the prep league that girls will be allowed to participate in the meet and a trophy will be given to the winning girls' team.

The girls will not swim in competition with the boys, but in special events alone. Girls' swimming teams from North Avenue Presbyterian, Washington Seminary, Woodberry Hall, Girls' High, Fulton High, Commercial High and Russell High are invited to participate in the meet.

Boys' High defeated G. M. A. Tuesday afternoon in a practice swim at the Y. M. C. A. and the 1929 champions of the Atlanta Athletic Club who have handled club swimming activities will handle the prep league meet Saturday night. It was announced Wednesday by Joe Bean.

Marist, B. H. S. Play Today.

Marist and Boys' High's baseball teams will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Piedmont park instead of Friday afternoon. Both Coach Bean and Doyle agreed to move the game up to this afternoon.

IMPORTANT!

It is essential that candidates have a thorough understanding regarding new contract subscriptions; also, what is considered "old" or "new" subscriber, and the following rules explain this fully:

When a new contract order is accepted, unless signed by the subscriber, it must be clearly and definitely explained to the subscriber that they will be verified by The Constitution, and that if the subscriber does not meet the acid test, it will not be accepted.

No contract subscription will be accepted from minors, transients or those persons not holding responsible positions.

No contract subscription will be accepted for a period less than six months or more than twelve months. Subscribers are not permitted to sign contracts for more than twelve months.

Once turned in by a candidate, for twelve months, the subscriber will not be permitted to give another subscription, however, if signed for six months, the subscriber will be allowed to increase it to one year.

A new subscriber is any person not receiving The Atlanta Constitution by mail or authorized carrier on March 9, 1930.

Changing the name from one member of the household to another will not be credited as a new subscriber. Making a subscription "new" when it is "old" will result in a disqualification. This rule is imperative and will be strictly adhered to.

The Atlanta Constitution aims to deliver a subscription "new" when it can do so only with the cooperation of candidates.

Successful observance of the foregoing rules and suggestions will be appreciated.

INDIANA RENOMINATES DELEGATION IN HOUSE

10 Republicans, 3 Democrats Win in Primary Election.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 7.—(AP)—Indiana's delegation in the national house of representatives of 10

House of Representatives of 10 republicans and 3 democrats came safely through the primary election held yesterday, it was indicated today when figures had been assembled from each district. The incumbents are all desirous of another term.

In at least two districts the fall campaigns may be fought out on the wet and dry issues. The democrats in the thirteenth district nominated a wet, Samuel B. Pettengill, of South Bend, to make the race against Andrew J. Hickey, republican, who has been approved by the Indiana Anti-

Saloon League. Thomas P. Riddle, of Ray, another wet, had a lead over three opponents for the democratic nomination in the twelfth district. If he is nominated he will oppose David Hogg, of Fort Wayne, a republican whose candidacy was also approved by the Anti-Saloon League.

Two republicans campaigned for the seventh district nomination on wet platforms, but both were trailing in the early count. Indianapolis is the center of the seventh district and is represented in congress by Louis Ludlow, democrat, who is a dry.

ed only a tight vote. In Lake county, however, nine persons were arrested and charged with conspiracy to violate the election laws. One of those held on $10,000 bond was M. H. Marquardt, 39, campaign manager for William Fulton, who was republican candidate for renomination as commissioner of Lake county.

In addition to nominating congressional candidates both major parties also selected candidates for the state legislature and for county offices

Doctor Thinks

Criminality Is Instinctive

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—

The familiar question "Why does a person become a criminal?" should be changed, thinks Dr. Franz Alexander, distinguished Berlin psychiatrist, to "Why don't all people become criminals?"

"The first form of the question,"

He said today in a paper read at the International Congress on Mental Hygiene, "is due to the usual pride and lack of knowledge of most people as to their own personality. It presupposes that it is natural to be a righteous citizen and that a special explanation is necessary when people do not respect social regulations.

"Psychoanalysis on the other hand teaches that people come into the world with impulses and instincts that are not adjusted to society, that they are born as criminal beings, meaning by this that if a little child could realize the demands of its instincts it would act as a criminal.

The degree to which this process is successful, he explained, distinguishes the habitual "practitioner"

...from the habitual or chronic criminal from the accidental criminal. A change of environment has no effect upon the former, he said. This type belongs to the doctors, while the latter ceases being criminal when conditions which brought on criminal acts are changed. The prevention of crime among the latter group, he

The tendency to criminal instinctual outbreak, he continued, is a product of the instinctual conflicts of childhood, with "two great instinctive qualities"—hunger and love—predominant.

"Our judges try to explain every human action by consciously rational motives," he said. To them every phantastically construed motive is preferable to the generally determining instinctive-emotional motive as to the nature of which they know nothing. The behavior of the psychopathic or chronic culprit betrays a clearly irrational trait. It cannot be explained by a utilitarian motive."

YOUNG WOMAN SUES CORNELL PROFESSOR

ALBANY, N. Y., May 7.—(AP)—
Lettie H. Witherspoon, holder of a master of arts degree from Cornell University, appealed to the court of appeals today for an opportunity to clear her name of alleged slanderous statements which she charges Professor Arthur J. Eames, of the Cornell faculty, has uttered against her.

Miss Witherspoon brought action for slander against Professor Eames in Tompkins county court, but she failed to appear. The supreme court and the appellate division refused her petition for an order to reopen the proceedings and she has applied to the court of appeals.

She charges that Professor Eames said she was "a disgrace to Cornell" and not the type of a person desired as a student there," that the teacher had told her she was offensive and had no brains and had told others she was dishonest and had been "dismissed from a southern university for stealing and should be dismissed from Cornell."

Miss Witherspoon asks $10,000 damages.

Chicago Gangsters Claim Another Life

CHICAGO, May 7.—(P)—Another gangster went for his last ride today. His mutilated body was found face down in a ditch along the Joliet road, a favorite battle ground of bootleggers.

County highway police believed the victim was "Big Jack" Heinman, a Capone clansman.

The man apparently had been tortured before he was slain. Both eyeballs had been gouged out and there were bruises and cuts on the throat. A machine gun had sprayed a dozen bullets into his head.

Executive Luncheon Held by Dry Survey

An executive luncheon of the Georgia state committee of the national prohibition was held Wednesday by Edward Kennedy, executive director of the survey, who later said he would have no announcement to make until today.

To the luncheon Kennedy had invited the full membership of the state committee and several guests, to explain the origin of the movement. Kennedy had hoped to poll more than 32,000,000 Americans on the prohibition question.

Colonel George M. Napier, attorney general of Georgia, invited by the survey to become its national treasurer, said several days ago he would issue a statement Thursday clarifying his connection with the organization.

Because of the executive nature of the luncheon, Kennedy said, he could not announce a list of guests who accepted his invitation to attend.

Then Tarzan stepped close to Cadj, the High Priest. "Whoever harms La shall die. Remember, Tarzan will go again to Opar before the next rains and if harm has befallen La, woe betide you!" Sullenly, Cadj promised. "Protect her," cried Tarzan to the other Oprians, "so that when Tarzan comes again he will find La there to greet him." "La will wait longingly," exclaimed the High Priestess. "Oh, tell me that you will come." "Who knows?" asked the ape-man, and he swung quickly into the trees.
